SCs, STs clash as man drinks water in farm; 15 injured

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

A village in Gadag district witnessed a group clash between SC and ST communities after a young man drank water from a field of a farmer belonging to another community. In the clash, 15 villagers from both sides sustained injuries and have been admitted to hospital.

The clash was between SC and ST communities at Chikkavaddatti village of Mundargi taluk. The young man from the Madiga community was going through the land of a farmer from Valmiki community when he had a drink of water as it was extremely hot. Another farmer, also from Valmiki community, objected.

Soon, the information spread in the village and people from both communities gathered and indulged in a verbal duel that escalated into a full-blown fight. The two sides threw stones at each other, in which 15 persons were injured. While many were discharged after first-aid, others were admitted to the hospital.

Some villagers alerted the Mundargi police, who arrived at the village and brought the situation under control. They have kept vigil since Monday night.

Superintendent of Police Rohan Jagadish said, "We visited the village and ensured tight security. Officers have been told to maintain vigil for the next two days. The villagers were warned not to continue the clash."

Both leaders discuss the importance of keeping the Strait of Hormuz secure and accessible to all

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday spoke with Prime Minister Narendra Modi, focusing on the urgent need to de-escalate tensions in West Asia and keeping the critical global shipping route of the Strait of Hormuz open, safe and accessible for the whole world.

"Received a call from President Trump and had a useful exchange of views on the situation in West Asia. India supports de-escalation and restoration of peace at the earliest. Ensuring that the Strait of Hormuz remains open, secure and accessible is essential for the whole world. We agreed to stay in touch regarding efforts towards peace and stability," Modi wrote on X.

US Ambassador to India Sergio Gor, too, highlighted the maritime safety aspect, saying "President Donald Trump just spoke with Prime Minister Modi. They discussed the ongoing situation in the Middle East, including the importance of keeping the Strait open."

The conversation is the first between Modi and Trump since the US and Israel launched strikes against Iran on February 28. It comes amid rising tensions and sharply rising energy prices.

On Monday, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar had held conversation with US counterpart Marco Rubio.

Washington has signalled cautious diplomatic engagement with Tehran. It has emerged that the US has engaged Pakistan, Egypt and Turkiye in back-channel for looking at solutions for ending the war with Iran. India has also engaged directly with regional leaders. Modi spoke over the weekend with Iran's President Masoud Pezeshkian.

Shortly after his call with Trump, Modi spoke to Sri Lankan President Anura Kumara Dissanayake about the crisis due to the war.

Serious consequences if crisis continues: PM

Amid a deepening global energy crisis, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday addressed the Rajya Sabha and said prolonged instability could lead to unavoidable and serious consequences. "If the global circumstances created by this war persist for a long time, serious consequences are inevitable. Therefore, India is accelerating the resilience-building measures it has undertaken in recent years," he said. "During the great crisis of the pandemic, the Centre and the states together presented an excellent model of COVID management. We must continue to work in the same spirit", he asserted

Pvt sector growth slips to 3.5-yr low as war impacts demand

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

PRIVATE sector business activities, as measured by HSBC Flash India PMI Composite Output, fell to a three-and-a-half-year low in March amid a drastic drop in demand and a spike in costs due to the ongoing West Asia conflict.

The index slipped to 56.5 in March, marking the weakest growth since October 2022. The composite PMI was 58.9 in February.

HSBC attributed the poor show to the West Asia conflict, weaker domestic demand, market instability, and inflationary pressures. "Output growth eased across both manufacturing and services as the energy shock unfolds. Softer domestic demand weighed on new orders, which rose at the slowest pace in more than three years, despite a record surge in new export orders. Cost pressures intensified, but companies are absorbing part of the increase by squeezing margins," said Pranjul Bhandari, chief economist at HSBC India.

The slowdown was more pronounced in the manufacturing sector, where output growth eased amid global uncertainties. Factory output expanded at its slowest pace since August 2021.

The manufacturing PMI dropped to 53.8 in March from 56.9 in February, a four-and-a-half-year low, while the manufacturing output index fell to 55.1.

Services activity also moderated, with the business activity index easing to 57.2 from 58.1, marking the weakest growth since January 2025.

On a positive note, data showed that exports remained strong, driven by robust demand from Asia, Europe, the US, and West Asia.

CAG flags fraud, irregularities in K'taka MNREGA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A section of the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) report, which was tabled in the Assembly on Tuesday, focused on large-scale irregularities in the MNREGA scheme in the state, revealing fraudulent transactions in housing projects, where payments were made for already completed houses, ineligible beneficiaries were paid, workers were handed wages without any construction work being carried out and workers were paid beyond prescribed limits.

At many worksites, drinking water, medical aid and child care facilities were not available, discouraging women and elderly from taking part in work.

WORKSITE FACILITIES

- 60% said childcare facilities were unavailable
- 49% said reported first aid/ medical aid was not present
- 30% said shade was unavailable
- 9% reported lack of drinking water

(400 beneficiaries surveyed)

A large number of approved projects under the scheme were not taken up, while many works remained incomplete for over a year, it stated. "Convergence of MGNREGS works utilising the technical/financial resources of other departments was not effective due to the absence of prescribed institutional support and lack of co-ordination with the line departments," it pointed out.

The attendance of workers was not marked or signature/thumb impression not taken in 50 random cases, but Rs 5.51 lakh was paid to workers, it stated.

The CAG also raised concerns over genuineness of employment. At the same time, 497 workers employed in 17 different works of 13 gram panchayats were not paid Rs 10.98 lakh, though they had worked and provided required documents. This is against the basic objective of the scheme. In some cases, excess payment had been made, it stated. As technical committees at district and taluk level were not formed, irregularities like preparation of unrealistic estimates, improper execution of works and irregular expenditure were committed.

"Expenditure was incurred in excess of sanctions on account of non-revision of estimates as stipulated in Scheme guidelines. Material costs for individual works were paid directly to vendors, instead of beneficiaries, in violation of Government instructions," it added.

SC: Scheduled Caste tag limited to Hindu, Sikh, Buddhist faiths

UDAYAN KISHORE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday held that only individuals belonging to the Hindu, Sikh, or Buddhist faiths can be considered members of a Scheduled Caste (SC), and conversion to any other faith will result in the person losing the SC status.

"No person who professes a religion other than Hindu, Sikh or Buddhist shall be a member of Scheduled Caste. Conversion to any other religion results in immediate and complete loss of the Scheduled Caste status," the court said, while upholding an order of the Andhra Pradesh High Court.

A bench of justices P K Mishra and Manmohan passed the order on an appeal filed by Pastor Chinthada Anand, who alleged that he faced caste discrimination from one Akkala Ramireddy and others. Anand filed a complaint against Ramireddy under the SC/ST Act and the police lodged an FIR.

Ramireddy then approached the Andhra Pradesh HC. The HC quashed the FIR on the ground that Anand had lost his SC status upon conversion to Christianity and, therefore, cannot claim protection under the SC/ST Act. It had held that Anand holding an SC certificate will not help his case since conversion to Christianity, where caste distinctions do not exist, nullifies the SC status.

The Supreme Court upheld the HC order. "We have no hesitation in holding that the appellant (Anand), having ceased to be a member of the Madiga community upon his conversion to Christianity, and having failed to establish any subsequent reconversion, does not satisfy the mandatory Constitutional requirement for claiming the status of Scheduled Caste," the bench ruled.

Security high, Chinnaswamy gates will open only 4 hours before match

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Bengaluru police have made elaborate security and traffic arrangements for IPL 2026 cricket matches at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium on March 28 and April 5.

City Police Commissioner Seemanth Kumar Singh told the media on Tuesday that arrangements have been made as per the recommendations of a committee formed by the state government that had top officials from different departments.

"The gates to the stadium will open four hours before the match, and those without tickets will not be allowed to stand near the stadium. QR-code based electronic ticketing system, including a Metro pass, has been introduced. The match ticket price and Metro fare are combined so that people need not buy Metro train tickets separately (to and from). Parking is banned around the stadium," he said.

"Fans are requested to use both Cubbon Park and MG Road Metro stations. BMRCL has arranged parking facilities at places from where fans board trains. As Queen's Road gets congested, except for two entry/exit points all other entries have been closed. Maximum entry to the stadium will be from Cubbon Road that has 9 metre-high gates. There will be 28 openings from this road, and four entry points on the Link Road," he said. P2

Foresters party on roadside, attack scribe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

FOREST staff were found drinking alcohol and partying on the roadside near Moodalakoppalu on the Hunsur State Highway late on Monday night. A journalist, who went to record the foresters for partying in a public place which is against the law, was attacked and made to delete the video he had shot. However, a part of the recording remained in his mobile phone, which he uploaded and that has gone viral.

The forest personnel had gathered on the roadside and were partying at midnight. Journalist Vishanth reached the spot and as he was videographing them, they confronted him, leading to a heated argument. The situation soon escalated and he was assaulted. Vishanth sought treatment at a hospital, where a medico-legal case was registered. He later filed a formal complaint at the Bilikere police station.

"Harish Rana passed away at 4.10 pm on March 24 at AIIMS, Delhi," the hospital said.

The Supreme Court had permitted passive euthanasia for Harish on March 11. He was moved to the palliative care unit of AIIMS's Dr B R Ambedkar Institute Rotary Cancer Hospital on March 14. Subsequently, Harish's nutritional support was gradually withdrawn. A specialised medical team headed by Dr Seema Mishra was constituted to implement the process.

CITY'S WASTE WOES

GARBAGE COLLECTION DISRUPTED, 35 FIRs AGAINST CONTRACTORS

BSWML says appointed agencies have duty to collect wet and dry waste separately

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

WITH garbage contractors not sending low-value plastic to the transfer station by segregating waste and threatening to stop service following action by marshals, FIRs have been filed against more than 20 contractors across the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) limits. As per Karee Gowda, CEO, Bengaluru Solid Waste Management Limited (BSWML), the authority will not allow any blackmailing and hence got the FIRs registered.

In response, SN Balasubramanyam, General Secretary of GBA Garbage Contractors Association, said that the BSWML CEO, COO, Assistant Executive Engineers (AEEs), and Assistant Engineers (AEs) are harassing contractors and hence counter complaints will be filed for violation of the Scavengers Act.

The top official from BSWML stated that the appointed agencies have a duty to collect wet and dry waste separately from each house and transport it to the recycling unit and landfill areas.

"Daily waste collection is very important from the point of view of public health. If waste disposal is not done properly, black spots will be created on the roads, which will have a serious adverse effect on the beauty of the city and the health of the public, there will be a risk of spreading infectious diseases, and the sanitation of the city will be completely impaired. Some of the contractors are not collecting and disposing of garbage in their limits, and have shown gross negligence in their duty by not collecting the waste between 6 am and 2 pm on 23-03-2026. This act of theirs is detrimental to public health and is a clear violation of the ESMA Act. Therefore, in the public interest and to maintain the cleanliness of the city, a complaint has been filed seeking appropriate legal action under the ESMA Act against the contractors for dereliction of duty," said Karee Gowda.

The officials said around 35 FIRs have been filed against contractors and some of the agencies have more than two FIRs against them.

Responding to the FIRs and BSWML stand, SN Balasubramanyam stated that the BSWML has a responsibility of creating awareness among residents to segregation of waste at source and then hand over wet and dry waste to auto tippers that come at their doorstep.

"BSWML is trying to tie the failure of segregation of waste at source to the contractors' head. The contractors did not agree to the low-value plastic generation and sending it to the waste unit. Many workers like drivers and waste pickers, have left for Tamil Nadu and West Bengal due to the assembly elections, and hence the work was hit. But the BSWML has termed this impact of waste collection as a protest and got FIRs registered. In response, we will also get a counter FIR against BSWML officials as their action is a violation of the Scavengers Act. That apart, we will also file an atrocity case against the CEO and others," said Balu.

JICA inks ₹6,100-cr loan pact for Metro Ph-3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) has signed an Official Development Assistance (ODA) loan agreement worth Rs 6,100 crore with the Government of India for the Bengaluru Metro Rail Project Phase 3 (I), also called the Orange Line.

According to a press release from JICA, Phase 3 (I) includes the construction of approximately 44.65 km of Metro lines with 31 elevated stations. The corridors cover the Outer Ring Road stretch (Corridor 3-1) and the western growth corridor (Corridor 3-2). Once completed, the new lines will integrate with the Airport Line and Line 6, forming a circular network around the city and significantly improving airport connectivity.

The loan carries a repayment period of 30 years, including a 10-year grace period. The project is targeted for completion by January 2032. Invitations for consultancy services are expected in April 2026, while tenders for initial civil works, including viaduct construction, are likely to be floated in May 2026. Officials said the expansion will also promote transit-oriented development through multimodal integration, including feeder services and shared mobility systems.

Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd (BMRCL) Managing Director Ravishankar told TNIE that the agreement was for a total amount of Rs 6,775 crore that will be released in two batches — Rs 6,100 crore initially and the remaining later. The funds are expected be released in the next 15 to 20 days following which the majority of the money will be utilised for land acquisition and subsequent civil works.

Ashoka says state govt plans to shut Jakkur flying school

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

LEADER of Opposition R Ashoka alleged in the Assembly that the state government is planning to shut Government Flying Training School at Jakkur near the Kempegowda International Airport.

He claimed that real estate mafia is attempting to take over 370 acres of land near the airport, originally donated by the Mysuru royal family in the 1940s. A similar move was made during the previous Siddaramaiah-led government, he said.

He demanded an explanation from Deputy Chief Minister who also holds the Bengaluru Development portfolio.

"In the previous Congress regime, there was a plan to build an Executive Club for MLAs, MPs and officers which was cancelled when Basavaraj Bommai was CM. Now, the government is attempting to close the school to favour real estate interests. Officials have held meetings to discuss shifting the school."

He said when Congress was in opposition, Krishna Byre Gowda had said it was a mistake. "This is a big scam. The school should be saved," Ashoka said. He said discussions have taken place to build a sports complex on the school's land. If the school is closed, real estate developers will construct highrise buildings, he said.

Crticising the government's move to divide BBMP to five corporations, Ashoka said the government has lost its common sense. "The BBMP Revenue Department should have 1,482 officials, but only 858 are in position. In the Health Department, there should be 1,063 but only 429 are working. In the Engineering wing, instead of 1,047, only 543 officials are there. In the Finance section, only 18 instead of 30. First and second division employees should be 2,704, but only 970 are present. This means no new appointments have been made in BBMP. Over this, it's divided. The corporation's revenue has also fallen. Property tax is expected to generate Rs 4,500 crore, through town planning, another Rs 1,200 crore and road-cutting charges Rs 150 crore is generated, while together it comes around Rs 5,850 crore, of which Rs 3,492 crore is needed for salaries alone. They need Rs 6,300 crore, including salary amount. If there is a flood or any other crisis, Corporation has no money left. Last summer, a tanker mafia was seen in the city. This summer has already begun, but no meetings have been held and no preparations made, he said.

'E-KHATA IS A SCAM'

Ashoka said officials are taking money to convert existing A Khata into e-khatas. He narrated couple of cases and produced Gpay print out by an official who collected money from public. He said the failure to issue Occupancy Certificates has left around 4 lakh buildings unused, raising concerns over why construction approvals were granted in the first place. With nearly 80% of Bengaluru's buildings unauthorised, there is a demand to resolve the issue without hardship, allowing genuine residential use.

25th March : Solar Conjunction to Saturn There's wildness in the way our minds work, and that can be beautiful. But when it isn't, remember that the uncomfortable thoughts are common, especially on a day of a solar conjunction with Satum and three lunar squares. Treat the negative thoughts like mental static. Don't build an identity around them. You don't need a pure mind to live well. You need a flexible one.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Once again, you'll put yourself in another person's shoes. Every time you do this, you get a little better at it. The exercise doubles as an act of respect that simultaneously builds your emotional intelligence and relationships.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20)
You have a better time when you're around generous spirits -- people who treat others well, love many things and people, and show that big heart in all that they do to make the world a better place.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)
Being extremely talented at something is a function of knowing what you love about it and drilling down on that area. You love to do the thing you are wired to do. When you answer to your own preferences, you get better and better at it.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)
You sometimes don't recognize the rhythm you're locked in until you fall out of it, feel the tension of being outside the beat and make the choice to get back in step. The metaphor can be aptly applied to your personal life today.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)
When tasks are uncontained, they float like ghosts. They feel infinite. Make one running list, not five mental ones. When everything is written down in one place, the nervous system relaxes a bit. Getting things scheduled will relieve anxiety.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)
The thing to do with your feelings is not to assess them, not to judge whether they are good or bad, correlate them with events or compare them to other emotions you had a year ago. The thing to do with your feelings is just to feel them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)
Speed and decisiveness will work for you. You will lay down a boundary, and it's best done quickly, right from the start. One form this might take: redirecting a conversation that's headed in a direction you simply don't want to go.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21)
Right now, a job seems hard, but don't let that stop you from rolling up your sleeves and getting into it. With repetition, the task will get easier and take up less energy. You're just getting used to the motion of it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)
You pride yourself on independence, but today it benefits you to collaborate even if you don't really need to. Don't worry, it won't dilute your originality. The right alliance will actually sharpen your thinking and stretch your vision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)
There is no relationship decision that is worth agonizing over right now. Consider not making a decision at all. Being able to live in the tension of an in-between state can be a kind of art form, and you're uniquely poised to benefit from hovering in today's state of possibility.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)
Oddly enough, sometimes you'd rather work than think about fun because conjuring fun can be more complicated than it seems. It's just one of those days when the pressure of trying new things is less appealing than the certainties of working toward an expected outcome.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar 20)
There will always be annoyances, limitations and things about yourself or your situation that you wish were different. Today, you'll notice what isn't ideal, accept that it's part of the package and refuse to let it dominate your focus.

HC FLAGS HEALTH CONCERNS POSED BY CONOCARPUS TREES

Tells GBA to consider risks before planting

HEALTH & INFRA HAZARDS

- These trees flower during the winter season, releasing pollen that spreads in the surrounding areas
- The pollen causes respiratory illnesses, colds, coughs, asthma, and severe allergies in humans, particularly a severe impact on children, elderly persons, and those with pre-existing respiratory conditions
- The aggressive root system damages freshwater systems and underground water infrastructure
- Roots destroy communication cables, affecting telecommunications
- Drainage lines are damaged, causing waterlogging and sewage problems

AREAS WITH SUCH TREES

- Maharani's College Road near City Civil Court
- Road medians from Magadi Main Road, Sunkadakatte to NICE Road
- From Srigandhada Kavalu Signal to Kengeri KHV
- From Srigandadakaval Bridge to Nagarabhavi

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the Forest, Environment and Ecology Department, as well as the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) to take into account the alleged health concerns that Conocarpus trees pose before planting such trees in future.

A division bench of Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice CM Poonacha passed the order, disposing a public interest litigation filed by a city-based advocate, Sharanu M.

Stating that Gujarat, Telangana and Tamil Nadu have prohibited the planting of those trees in their states, considering the effect on the health and environment and despite the recommendation of the Supreme Court for the removal of Conocarpus trees across India, the authorities of the state government and the GBA have failed to take any remedial action, the petitioner alleged.

The officials also engaged in financial fraud by billing for expensive indigenous species while actually planting cheaper prohibited Conocarpus trees, causing financial loss to GBA, he alleged.

The petitioner prayed that the court issue directions for the removal of those trees planted in the city. The court, however, stated that the question of whether those trees have to be removed or not has to be considered by the appropriate authority, and it is not apposite to pass any order in the writ petition.

Pourakarmikas barge into GBA chief's office over job security

Bengaluru: A large group of pourakarmikas barged into the office of Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) Chief Commissioner M Maheshwar Rao on Monday, demanding their service regularisation certificates, bonus and jobs on compassionate grounds for immediate family members of pourakarmikas who died on duty. Muniraju, state general secretary, Karnataka Rajya Nagarasabha, Purasabha Pourakarmikara Mahasangha, said following the decision of the government to regularise the service of pourakarmikas, the civic body denied the regularisation certificate for nearly 2,000 out of 12,692 pourakarmikas on "flimsy grounds". "We demanded that the GBA allot the remaining appointment letters on April 14 and accommodate the immediate family members of pourakarmikas who died while in service. The chief commissioner said he will look into the demands and asked us to meet the special commissioner, administration, GBA," said Muniraju. Muthyalappa, president, Greater Bengaluru Pourakarmika Association, said they have decided that if their demands are not met, they will organise a massive protest in May. ENS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE suspected murder case of a 50-year-old woman, whose body was found dumped behind the Mylasandra bus stop, has taken an interesting twist. It has now come to light that the victim, Kempamma, was hit by a speeding autorickshaw when she was crossing the road. She sustained severe head injuries.

The auto driver, fearing attack by passersby, took the unconscious Kempamma in his vehicle to shift her to a hospital. However, he later dumped her on a garbage heap and escaped. The woman is suspected to have died without timely treatment. The Kengeri police have registered a case.

Kempamma was a resident of Madeshwara block in Valagerahalli and a native of Mandya. The body was found near the Valagerahalli BDA apartments on the Kengeri Satellite Town main road.

"While checking CCTV cameras in the vicinity, we found out about the auto driver. The accused has been identified and we are in the process of arresting him," said an officer.

Based on her Aadhaar card details, the police contacted her family members and informed them about the murder. The body has been shifted to the mortuary. The Kengeri police have registered a case of murder.

RWA moves HC against pvt school

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday issued notice to the state government, city police commissioner, chief commissioner of Greater Bengaluru Authority, Karnataka State Pollution Control Board, National Public School (NPS) and others on a PIL filed by Rajajinagar 5th Block Residents' Welfare Association (RWA).

The RWA alleged that its members have been facing problems from a school of NPS, which has been constructed on a stormwater drain. The school uses loudspeakers and causes traffic jams in the locality. A division bench of Chief Justice Vibhu Bakhru and Justice CM Poonacha passed the order.

The RWA stated that the school functions from a buffer zone of the stormwater drain. School buses and vehicles of teachers and parents are always parked in front of the houses of its members. The school has more than 24 buses and employs many drivers and helpers. But it doesn't have washrooms or toilets for them. The drivers and helpers urinate in public places and play cards inside the buses.

The use of loudspeakers was stopped after a complaint was filed with the local police some time ago. But the school has started using them again claiming that many ministers in the government and top officials are its ex-students. The police are helpless because of the influence and high-level connections the school has, the petitioner alleged.

WATER QUALITY MONITORING DEFICIENT ACROSS K'TAKA: CAG

Says none of 31 dists, 48 taluk-level labs have facilities to test samples for arsenic content

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WATER quality monitoring and surveillance systems have been found severely deficient at all levels of administration in Karnataka, according to a Comprtroller and Auditor General (CAG) report on the implementation of Jal Jeevan Mission.

The report was tabled in the Karnataka Legislative Assembly on Tuesday. It revealed that 533 villages lacked women trained in using field test kits, raising concern over monitoring at the grassroots.

Taking objection to it, the report stated that retesting of contaminated samples was taken up only in 2023-24, covering just 18% of the cases.

It said none of the 31 district-level and 48 taluk-level laboratories had facilities to test samples for arsenic content. Only 17 district-level laboratories and four taluk-level laboratories had facilities to test samples for microbiological parameters such as total coliform and E. coli.

Not a single sample was sent to the designated state referral laboratory between 2019-20 and 2023-24. Moreover, remedial action on contaminated water sources was found to be inadequate.

The report further said independent audit testing conducted at the Karnataka State Pollution Control Laboratories showed that water quality met prescribed standards in only two of the 28 test-checked villages.

It said water testing across the state faced major delays with all 79 laboratories failing to meet the prescribed timelines of 24-48 hours. The turnaround time ranged from 9 to 75 days and up to 106 days in private empanelled labs, with Uttara Kannada reporting higher delays.

Referring to irregularities in bidding, it said as per the data analysis of 38,231 works finalised, 9,342 (around 24%) were awarded through single bidder. Further, many works were awarded to a single contractor without assessing the individual/firm's capacity to execute multiple projects.

The CAG also found major lapses in planning, execution, financial management and water quality monitoring under the Jal Jeevan Mission in the state. As against a target of 72.14 lakh Functional Household Tap Connections (FHTCs), only 47.62 lakh were delivered. The report cited systemic issues such as delayed tendering, weak institutional mechanisms, poor fund control, and inadequate community engagement. It called for urgent reforms to improve implementation, ensure efficient fund use, and achieve sustainable rural water supply.

Min: 22 Indira Canteens ready, but awaiting inauguration

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

MINISTER of Municipal Administration Rahim Khan said that 22 Indira Canteens are ready but have not been inaugurated, as the local MLAs have not allocated time to inaugurate it. He was replying to a question raised by BJP MLC KS Naveen in the Council on Tuesday, who raised suspicion over the allocation of tenders only to one private company both in 2017 and in 2023 by granting them 4G exemption.

Naveen raised suspicion about the tenders awarded only to that company, and also claimed that when he checked the company over a phone call, he got a reply that it was closed. Urban Development Minister Byrathi Suresh said that it was not right to accuse a company just by getting information over the phone. He said that the company is located in Doddaballapur, and he could direct officials concerned to arrange for Naveen's visit.

Earlier, Rahim Khan said that there were 346 Indira Canteens functioning in the state, and 15 canteens were under construction. "I have written letters to the legislators to inaugurate the canteen, and we are hopeful of doing it this month," Rahim Khan said.

ASSEMBLY BYPOLLS

Victory matter of prestige for Cong, morale booster for BJP

FIROZ ROZINDAR @ Vijayapura

THE bypolls to the Davangere South and Bagalkot Assembly constituencies have set the stage for a politically significant contest, with the Ruling Congress and the Opposition BJP viewing the outcome through distinctly different lenses. Bypolls were necessitated following the demise of sitting Congress MLAs Shamanur Shivashankarappa (Davanagere South) and HY Meti (Bagalkot), recently.

For the Congress, the elections are largely a matter of prestige. A victory in both the seats would reinforce the perception that the Congress continues to enjoy public support in Karnataka and that voters remain satisfied with its governance. Retaining these constituencies would also help the Congress consolidate its political narrative ahead of future electoral battles.

In contrast, the BJP's approach is more strategic than numerical. Even a win in one of the two constituencies would serve as a morale booster and provide psychological momentum. The BJP is aware that the results will not significantly alter the balance of power in the Assembly, where the Congress holds a comfortable majority. The BJP, however, is keen to use the opportunity to signal a potential shift in public sentiment. In the 2023 Assembly elections, the Congress secured a decisive mandate by winning 135 seats in the 224-member House, well above the majority mark of 113. The BJP managed 66 seats, while the JDS and others accounted for the remaining seats.

The Congress further strengthened its position by winning subsequent bypolls in Shiggaon and Channapatna. In those contests, the Congress defeated Bharath Bommai, son of MP and former CM Basavaraj Bommai, and Nikhil Kumaraswamy, son of Union Minister and former CM HD Kumaraswamy. These victories provided a significant morale boost to the ruling Congress at the time.

The current bypolls, however, present a different scenario. Unlike the previous contests, both Davanagere South and Bagalkot were already held by the Congress, increasing the pressure on the party to retain them.

Meanwhile, the BJP, with support from the JDS, is expected to mount an aggressive campaign to wrest at least one seat.

The BJP is aiming to leverage a potential victory to project a narrative of declining popularity of the Congress government. With the next Assembly elections roughly two years away, the BJP sees these bypolls as an opportunity to dent the Grand Old Party's image and build momentum.

To counter this, the Congress has fielded candidates from the families of the deceased leaders, banking on the sympathy factor. The party has given tickets to Samarth Shamanur, grandson of Shivashankarappa in Davangere South and Umesh Meti, son of Meti in Bagalkot, hoping to retain voter loyalty.

With the polling is scheduled for April 4 and results to be announced on May 4, the outcome will give clarity as to whose strategy has worked well.

Bill to protect lands used by govt schools for 12 years passed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Legislative Assembly on Tuesday passed the Karnataka Government Educational Institutions' Lands (Protection and Regularisation) Bill, 2026, to protect and regularise lands, including those donated, vested and used by government educational institutions continuously for 12 years in favour of the State Government.

Welcoming the Bill, legislators from all parties suggested that the government bring a similar Bill to protect lands under other departments.

The Bill states that government educational institutions have been established on lands donated by individuals, families or communities often without formal documentation or transfer of title deeds. These lands donated in good faith enabled the government to develop educational institutions that have served many generations. Despite decades of undisputed public use, recent claims by successors or legal heirs based on technical gaps in documentation have led to litigations that have stalled construction work and uncertainty over the status of such lands.

Currently, there is no dedicated legislation to protect such lands or validate informal gifts made for public education.

Existing legal frameworks do not adequately address long-standing, open and settled use of lands for government educational institutions.

The new Bill is to address these challenges. Vesting of land by the government will not be affected by the absence of a registered document of transfer; the death of the donor, whether testate or intestate; and non-compliance with the provisions of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (Central Act 04 of 1882) or the Indian Succession Act, 1925. (Central Act 39 of 1925), as per the Bill.

Any suit pending as on the date of commencement of this new Act relating to title or possession of such educational institutions' lands shall cease immediately unless compensation has been awarded under acquisition.

Claim within 30 days

Any individual, who holds a registered title document for the land in question and can prove by documentary evidence that it was never voluntarily given for the use of a government educational institution may file a claim before the Grievance Redressal Authority within 30 days from the date of commencement of new Act.

Rayareddi lashes out at Centre over funds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BASAVARAJ Rayareddi, Economic Advisor to Chief minister Siddaramaiah, on Tuesday slammed the Centre in the Assembly for not releasing the state's share of grants, including those under Jal Jeevan Mission (JJM).

Rayareddi said the state has adhered to the Fiscal Responsibility and Budget Management (FRBM) Act.

"The state's total liabilities are below 25 per cent of GSDP, the RBI may show up at 26 per cent but the CM will reply to it. The fiscal deficit is below 3 per cent. The state's revenue deficit is at 0.69 per cent of budget outlay whereas the Centre's is 1.5 per cent", he said. The Centre's grant for state is fixed at Rs 16,000 crore for last three years.

"I don't say there is no corruption which is a global phenomenon but Siddaramaiah has put efforts to curb it through reforms", he claimed.

He alleged the Centre has reduced grants for most of the centrally sponsored schemes which was why it has not released its share of Rs 19,102 crore due to the state. Even against the schemes of housing, education, roads the grants were reduced, he alleged.

Bill to streamline teacher transfers gets Assembly nod

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Assembly on Tuesday passed The Karnataka State Civil Services (Regulation of transfer of teachers (Amendment) Bill, 2026, to ensure that transfers of teachers shall, first, be to critical posts, and to other posts only when critical posts are unavailable.

The bill prohibits transfers of teachers from teaching to non-teaching posts. The objective is to address shortage of teachers.

The pregnant and women having children less than five years of age are entitled for transfers to any place in their respective zones and can retain their posting up to five years. It is to ensure that women teachers take best care of their children, said Madhu Bangarappa, Minister for Primary and Secondary Education.

The budget has made provisions for recruiting 15,000 teachers as against the 50,000 vacancies. The process will start once the issue of internal reservation of Scheduled Castes (SC) is resolved, he said, adding that Kalyana Karnataka region alone will get 5,800 posts.

The critical posts come in three categories as lecturers in Government Pre-University Colleges, category1; Karnataka Public Schools, Adarsha Vidyalaya and PM SHRI schools; category 2: All other schools and Government Pre-University Colleges having an enrolment exceeding 250 students or as per enrolment threshold notified by the Government from time to time other than Head Master or Vice-Principal; and Category 3: Head Master or Vice-Principal of High School or Principal in Government Pre-University Colleges under Category 1 and 2.

Transfers to the posts shall only be by counselling for which the minimum period of service shall be 12 years. Those who have served in non- teaching roles in DIETs, DSERT etc., for a minimum of three years will have to return to their teaching cadre.

COUNCIL CHAIRMAN HORATTI LOSES COOL OVER UNANSWERED QUERIES

BENGALURU: Cutting across party affiliations, Members of the Karnataka Legislative Council on Tuesday demanded that Chairman Basavaraj Horatti take stringent action against the officials and that they be summoned to the House and reprimanded for failing to reply to questions raised by legislators. JDS Member SL Bhoje Gowda said that despite repeated warnings, members' questions, including those of the Congress MLCs, have not been answered and sought to know what work the officials have apart from replying. Members, including Congress MLC Puttanna, urged the Chairman, who expressed 'helplessness', to use his powers vested in the Chair to take action against officials so that they fall in line. Horatti, who lost his cool over the poor response from the government, questioned the Leader of the House, Bose Raju, why such officials have not yet been suspended. Directing Bose Raju to take the matter seriously, Horatti said that he would get replies by Wednesday or face action. ENS

EVA NAMMAVVA BILL TO CHECK 'HONOUR KILLING' PASSED IN COUNCIL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Legislative Council on Tuesday passed the Eva Nammava Eva Nammava Bill -- The Karnataka Freedom of Choice in Marriage and Prevention and Prohibition of Crimes. After the Bill was passed, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister HK Patil said legislation strengthens safeguards for inter-caste and love marriages and marks an important first step towards empowering the youth in a largely male-dominated society and ensuring an end to honour killings.

The Bill received strong support from Congress MLCs, including S Ravi Kumar, Vasanth Kumar, FH Jakkappanavar, Ramesh Babu, and actor-MLC Umashree.

BJP members, led by N Narayanaswamy, CT Ravi, and Pratap Simha Nayak, said they were not opposing the bill but felt it was "not enough".

Patil said, "We have realised its importance. I can only say this is the beginning of a social dialogue. I will not claim it is a social change." He clarified that the bill would not instantly create a casteless society but represented a significant initial step in the right direction.

He said one legislator suggested mandatory counselling for couples entering inter-caste marriages. "We will take this issue forward. If counselling is needed, we will consider providing it," he assured the House.

MLCs question State Govt over mining by Adani's ACC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Council on Tuesday witnessed heated scenes with the Congress and BJP members questioning the State Government's motive of allowing Adani Group's ACC Limited to continue quarrying in Karnataka. They alleged that, despite the company's non-payment of royalty, rent, and penalties amounting to over Rs 850 crore, no action was taken and mining was permitted.

Raising the question on behalf of Congress MLC Arathi Krishna during the Question Hour, Congress MLC K Shivakumar said that despite the law department opining that the mining activities should not be permitted till ACC clears all its dues to the government, no action has been taken. He said quarrying operations continued at Kannur Limestone Block at Wadi in Kalaburagi district.

BJP MLC CT Ravi and Shivakumar questioned if the government would let a small quarry operator to carry out mining if he fails to pay mining dues, and sought to know the motive to allow Adani's ACC Limited. "Adani Group had to pay Rs 837 crore as royalty," Shivakumar said and questioned what prompted the government to grant the exemption.

MLC K Shivakumar makes a point in the Council on Tuesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Agriculture Minister N Chaluvarayaswamy, who answered on behalf of Mines and Geology Minister SS Mallikarjun, said that no fresh license was granted. He replied that the company's old license remains in effect under court direction. Heated exchange took place between the members.

Ravi questioned if the court had ordered not to recover the dues. "The state's budget indicates declining non-tax revenue. If Rs 800-900 crore is not collected, from where would the non-tax revenue for the state come from?" Shivakumar said.

The Minister said that the total due to be recovered was under dispute and had not been decided. He, however, told the House that till recovery is done, no further permission would be given, and a consultation with the Law Department and Advocate General would be held on further action.

The judicial magistrate of first class court of Mangaluru sentenced Sharan Kumar, a bus driver, to one year six months jail and imposed a penalty of Rs 6,000, after finding him guilty of negligent driving, killing Megha Ranjith Pai (34), at Kottara Chowki, Mangaluru, in 2022. Sharan knocked down pedestrian Megha while she was crossing the road. She was declared dead at the hospital

Sharp rise in domestic violence cases in state

Women's panel received 668 plaints in 2025-26; it was also flooded with dowry, police, sexual harassment cases

B K LAKSHMIKANTHA @Mysuru

IN a significant development, cases of domestic violence against women have risen sharply across the state over the past three years.

According to the latest data from the Karnataka State Commission for Women accessed by TNIE, the commission received a total of 2,179 complaints in 2023-24, 2,907 in 2024-25 and 4,482 complaints in 2025-26 (till January 2026).

Among them, 434 are domestic violence complaints in 2023-24. This number increased to 458 in 2024-25 and surged to 668 in 2025-26 (April 2025 to January 2026). The commission, which acts as a bridge between victims, the police and legal services, resolved 434 cases in 2023-24, 450 cases in 2024-25 (with eight still pending), and 472 cases in 2025-26.

Apart from domestic violence, the commission has been flooded with complaints related to protection of women, dowry harassment, workplace harassment, police harassment and sexual harassment. Acting as an investigative and mediatory body, it monitors police probes, conducts public hearings and facilitates dispute resolution.

Data shows that complaints seeking protection rose from 586 in 2023-24 to 943 in 2024-25, and further to 1,289 in 2025-26. Cases of sexual harassment stood at 26, 29 and 30 respectively over the three years. Complaints under sexual harassment of women at the workplace increased from 95 in 2023-24 to 131 in 2024-25, before slightly dipping to 123 in 2025-26. Meanwhile, "love-related" cases also rose from 29 to 45 and then to 62 during the same period.

An official from the Department of Women and Child Development said under the Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013, Deputy Commissioners in all districts are required to reconstitute committees every three years. These committees must hear workplace harassment complaints and dispose of cases within 90 days.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Karnataka State Commission for Women chairperson Nagalakshmi Chaudhary said domestic violence cases are more frequently reported in rural areas than in urban regions. She noted that earlier, women often refrained from reporting abuse due to social pressures to preserve family honour and harmony. "Today, women are more educated and financially independent. With greater awareness of legal rights, they are increasingly coming forward to file complaints," she added.

Chaudhary added that during her visits to rural areas, she observed liquor being sold in petty shops, which she believes is contributing to the rise in domestic violence. "Men under the influence of alcohol often resort to violence against their mothers and wives," she said and added that she will appeal to the state government to include a chapter in school syllabus to prevent crime against women.

The announcement was made at Freedom Park, Bengaluru, where thousands of Anganwadi workers staged a protest under the banner of the Karnataka State Anganwadi Workers' Association, urging for the fulfilment of various long-pending demands.

NITK landslide predicting system gets 20-year patent

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

AN invention developed at the National Institute of Technology Karnataka (NITK), Suratkal, was granted a patent by the Indian Patent Office, marking a significant breakthrough in landslide early warning technology. The patented system titled 'A Device for Slope Vulnerability and Land-Slide Assessment (S-VALSA)', with a patent term of 20 years, was created by Varun Menon O under the guidance of Sreevalsa Kolathayar, associate professor of the Department of Civil Engineering.

S-VALSA, a three-stage integrated warning mechanism, combines hydrological, geotechnical, and visual analysis. The first stage uses machine learning models trained on historical landslide and rainfall data to establish rainfall intensity-duration thresholds. The second stage introduces a "digital twin" of the slope, which is continuously updated with real-time data on soil moisture and pore pressure. The final stage employs Particle Image Velocimetry (PIV) to visually track soil movement, offering confirmation of slope failure progression.

NHAI set to increase toll on state highways from April 1

INDRA S @Bengaluru

ROAD users gear up to shell out up to Rs 25 extra, starting April 1, as National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) is set to increase tolls across Karnataka. While the car fares remain largely unchanged, there will be marginal hikes affecting commercial and multi-axle vehicles. Officials said the revisions are in line with the annual Wholesale Price Index-linked adjustments.

The key toll plazas include airport toll road, Bengaluru - Mysuru highway, Bagepalli (Chikkaballapur) toll plaza, Gadduru toll plaza (Kolar) and others, according to information available with TNIE.

DKS in Delhi, his camp holds dinner meeting

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AT a time Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar is in Delhi, a group of 18 MLCs, mostly his supporters, held a meeting over dinner at a private hotel in the state capital on Tuesday.

They chalked out a plan to press the Congress high command for a change in the chief minister's post, in line with a reported agreement at the high command-level that Siddaramaiah has to step down after serving two and a half years as the CM.

The MLCs also discussed demanding the replacement of people in the boards and corporations whose terms Siddaramaiah has extended.

A group of forty MLAs who won three times and more – the Siddaramaiah supporters – led by Chief Whip Ashok Pattan, is planning to visit Delhi on April.12 to meet the party high command and seek berths in the cabinet reshuffle. To counter them, the MLAs in the DKS camp are also demanding cabinet berths for five of them.

Jewellers see boost in sale as gold price slides

GAYATHRI M KURUP
@Bengaluru

AMIDST global economic uncertainty and a dip in gold prices, the city has seen a rise in sales of gold. Leading the trend, T A Sharavana, president of the Karnataka Jewellery Association, said the demand is slowly picking up.

"Sales have increased by around 25% in two days," Sharavana said. "Customers were waiting since the prices peaked earlier this year. Now that the prices have dropped slightly, they have begun buying again."

Sharavana added that the demand for gold is expected to grow further in the coming days because of the upcoming wedding season and festivals like Akshaya Tritiya.

According to him, buyers are mostly choosing lightweight and antique jewellery. "People are more aware now. They waited for prices to fall, and now they are making purchases," he said.

However, other jewellers say the rise in sales is not consistent across the market. Goutham Badera, proprietor of Panchkesari Badera Jewellers said, "We saw a 10-15% increase in sales when prices dropped. But prices are rising again. There is still a lot of confusion among customers."

Many buyers wait for price to go down further

SOME jewellers also said that many buyers are still waiting for prices to fall further. "Customers are not rushing to buy yet," said another owner of a jewellery shop. "They feel prices may drop more, so they are waiting. Unless prices become stable, sales may not increase steadily."

Industry experts say frequent changes in gold price are making customers unsure.

"Prices are going up and down almost every day," said Suresh Kumar Ganna, Managing Director of SK Jewels. "We have seen a small increase in sales, but overall customers are still cautious."

For now, jewellers say the market for gold is mixed. While some customers have started buying after the price drop, many others are still waiting for prices to settle before making a purchase.

Flight operator violated safety norms, reveals DGCA report

ON January 28, 2026, between 8.43 and 8.45 am, a Bombardier Learjet 45 aircraft, operated by VSR Ventures, crashed near the Baramati Airport, Pune. The aircraft was flying from Mumbai to Baramati, carrying Ajit Pawar, then DCM of Maharashtra. All five persons on board died in the crash.

Rohit said the material available discloses systematic violation of aviation safety regulations, deliberate falsification of records, gross negligence in maintenance and operations, and a pattern of conduct that directly and foreseeably caused the death of five. "On 24th February 2026, the DGCA in its safety audit report declared and admitted that aircraft of the VSR Company were found to be not airworthy and therefore were grounded as part of DGCA investigation in the crash of the charter plane. Aircraft VT-SSK was being operated in systematic violation of mandatory safety standards. At the time of the crash, the aircraft had accumulated approximately 4,915 flight hours, leaving only about 85 hours before the mandatory engine Time Before Overhaul ('TBO') threshold of 5,000 hours was reached," the complainant alleged.

Despite operating dangerously close to this limit, VSR continued to fly the aircraft. The investigation revealed that VSR allegedly under-recorded the aircraft's actual flight hours in official logbooks. This deliberate suppression and misrepresentation amounts a serious violation of aviation safety regulations, he stated.

Free fridge, oil & dal part of AIADMK's 297 poll promises

T MURUGANANDHAM @Chennai

AIADMK general secretary Edappadi K Palaniswami on Tuesday promised free refrigerator, one kg of dal and one litre of cooking oil for all rice category ration cardholders if his party is voted to power in the Assembly election.

Releasing the manifesto of 297 poll promises, with focus on women's welfare and broader outreach to various section of society, Palaniswami said the free refrigerator is meant to reduce the household workload of homemakers. The manifesto, which promised to hike quota for government school students in medical education from 7.5% to 10%, included the populist promises already made by Palaniswami in three installments earlier. The party promised Minimum Support Price (MSP) for agricultural products, particularly foodgrain, pulses, and oilseeds and MSP of Rs 3,500 per quintal for paddy and Rs 4,500 for a tonne of sugarcane.

It outlined a multi-pronged approach to women's safety, including expanding the Kavalan safety app and Amma Patrol vehicles from Chennai to other cities, and strengthening CCTV surveillance by creating world-class security infrastructure in tier-two cities. To support working women, especially those migrating from villages, a large number of hostels for them will be established in urban areas. Additionally, as part of a broader social protection push, steps will be taken for phased prohibition by gradually closing liquor shops in the state.

The manifesto proposes comprehensive measures for women's economic empowerment by offering a subsidy of up to Rs 10,000 per person to promote entrepreneurship, aiming to create one lakh micro-enterprises in five years. The Girl Child Protection Scheme deposit will be increased to Rs 1 lakh.

DMK SEALS SEAT DEAL: DMDK GETS 10, VCK 8

The protracted negotiations in the DMK alliance came to an end on Tuesday with 10 seats allotted to new ally DMDK, eight seats going to long-time friend VCK, and Kamal Haasan's MNM, peeved over paltry seat share, deciding not to contest the elections. Though the actor's other demand to allow his candidates to contest on the party's torchlight symbol was also turned down by the DMK, he offered "unconditional support" to the Secular Progressive Alliance led by the DMK. "This is not sacrifice, but duty," the actor said on X. ENS

KSOU global meet cancelled amid protocol row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

A controversy has erupted at the Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) after the state government issued a notice to its Vice-chancellor Prof Sharanappa V Halase over the organisation of an international academic conference scheduled between March 25 and 27.

The Higher Education Department directed the V-C to submit a clarification within 24 hours and ordered that the conference be temporarily postponed. Officials alleged that the university violated established protocol by organising an international event without prior intimation from the state government. Higher Education Minister Dr M C Sudhakar and the department officials in a letter stated that strict directions had been issued to cancel the event.

The issue also triggered a heated discussion in the Legislative Council, where several members accused the vice-chancellor of misuse of authority. Legislators further alleged that invitations for the conference had been extended to dignitaries, including Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot and Union Ministers, without informing the government.

The controversy deepened after the vice-chancellor submitted his explanation to the government through the Higher Education Department after he was served notice. Officials found the response "not justifiable", a source said. Subsequently, on Tuesday evening, Under Secretary N Kumar issued an order cancelling the 'Ekatma Manav Darshan- Bharat's Worldview' international conference, in which KSOU had been listed as the host university. Preparations for the conference had reportedly been in full swing on campus. Invitations had already been circulated to the media, and the official tour programme of Governor Gehlot indicated his participation in the event.

With conflicting developments unfolding rapidly, the issue is expected to escalate further on Wednesday. The cancellation order, ongoing preparations, and the Governor's scheduled participation have set the stage for potential administrative and political confrontation.

Nandini ties up with RCB as dairy sponsor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation (KMF), which markets its products under the Nandini label, has partnered with Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) as the official dairy partner for the 2026 edition of the IPL, beginning March 28. KMF, one of India's largest dairy cooperatives, said the collaboration marks the coming together of two prominent brands rooted in Karnataka.

Managing Director B Shivaswamy noted that the association will help the brand connect with RCB's large and passionate fan base during the tournament. As part of the partnership, Nandini will undertake a range of promotional activities, including on-ground visibility, fan engagement initiatives and brand campaigns during matches. RCB chief operating officer Rajesh Menon said the partnership is built on shared values of excellence, trust and community connection. He added that Nandini's strong household presence across Karnataka makes the association significant.

MUDA case: Activist moves HC against clean chit to Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE acceptance of the 'B' Report (closure report) in the case involving allegations of misuse of public office by a sitting CM and his family members, undermines public confidence in the fairness and impartiality of the investigative process, alleged Snehamayi Krishna in a petition filed before Karnataka High Court.

A special court had accepted the 'B' report filed by the Lokayukta police, giving a clean chit to Siddaramaiah, his wife, Parvathy BM, brother-in-law, Mallikarjuna Swamy, and another person in relation alleged irregularities in allotment of 14 compensatory sites to Parvathy by the MUDA. The petition is yet to come up for hearing. Krishna said the acceptance of the 'B' Report in respect of Siddaramaiah, Parvathy, Mallikarjunaswamy and Devaraju J, accused Nos.1 to 4 respectively, at a stage when the investigation into the same scheme and allotment process is admittedly ongoing against other participants has resulted in premature closure and has materially prejudiced the complainant. The petition seeks the court to set aside the order dated January 28, 2026, passed by the special court accepting the report and pass the order to transfer the investigation of the case to an independent agency, to be monitored by a retired Judge of the High Court of Karnataka, and submit a fresh report under Section 173 of the CrPC.

PARLIAMENT POISED TO USHER IN A NEW ERA OF NARI SHAKTI

THE Indian Parliament elected in 2029 is poised to mark a decisive turn towards nari shakti, provided the government can translate its legislative intent into broad political consensus—an outcome that now appears within reach. The Centre plans to introduce two Bills, including constitutional amendments, during this session to implement one-third reservation for women in the Lok Sabha and state Assemblies. If passed in time, the change could take effect for the 2029 general election and the subsequent assembly polls.

The mechanism under consideration is as consequential as the goal. The Lok Sabha's strength could increase by about half from 543 to 816 seats, making it the first such expansion in nearly five decades. More importantly, the additional 273 seats would be reserved for women. This would seek to avoid displacing sitting MPs and disrupting entrenched political equations, even as it could engineer a structural shift in women's representation in legislative bodies and reshape India's political landscape.

To meet the 2029 timeline, the government is inclined to base the reallocation on the 2011 Census data, sidestepping delays tied to the next exercise starting next month. Seats would be apportioned pro rata across states, raising, for instance, Kerala's tally from 20 to 30 and Uttar Pradesh's from 80 to 120. States with uneven seat counts will require tailored solutions. The expansion also aims to address long-standing concerns of southern states that their success at population control could translate into diminished representation. The proposed adjustments would also raise the seats reserved for members of the Scheduled Castes from 84 to 126 and for Scheduled Tribes from 47 to 70.

The arithmetic of reform is only part of the task. The ruling coalition's strength in both Houses provides a solid foundation, and the two-thirds requirement for constitutional amendment creates a strong incentive for wider agreement. The real opportunity lies not only in drafting the contours of the legislation, but in forging a broad, collaborative consensus capable of carrying this landmark reform through.

A longer horizon is already taking shape. Parallel discussions on synchronised elections indicate that, with enabling amendments, a nationwide 'One nation, one election' cycle could come into effect by 2034. For the time being, the possibility of transformation is increasingly within grasp. The 2029 Parliament can give greater expression to nari shakti through the steady alignment of political will, timing and institutional follow-through.

IPL MUST TREAD CAREFULLY AS PAK LEAGUE DOWNSIZES

WHEN the world is troubled by wars, sports can get caught in a web of uncertainty. As the US, Israel and Iran continue to rain missiles on West Asia, international competitions in the Gulf are being taken off the calendar and national tournaments are getting trimmed. Koneru Humpy withdrew from Candidates Chess because she was not feeling safe about competing in Cyprus, which is facing missile attacks. Cricket is getting affected, too. The Pakistan Cricket Board, noting the country's energy conservation measures such as school closures, increased work-from-home options and a government bar on non-essential travel, announced that all matches in the initial part of its T20 league would be played behind closed doors. The Pakistan Super League, which starts on Wednesday, will not have an opening ceremony and will be played without spectators, that too at only two venues instead of the earlier-planned six. This will financially affect the league that was supposed to be a lifeline for the sport in the country.

This may come as a mild warning for the Indian Premier League. The two are not comparable on money, glamour and size, with the PSL paling in comparison to the behemoth that's the IPL. But with the energy crisis looming, things can spiral down quite quickly. The governing council of IPL, which commences on March 28, is keeping a very close watch on the unfurling events. Though players from Australia and New Zealand are unlikely to be affected, those from South Africa and West Indies might find it difficult to travel to India.

The tournament should keep the welfare of fans in mind as well. Though the Indian government has assured there will be no scarcity, IPL would do well not to repeat what happened during its 2021 edition, when it came under severe criticism for continuing with the event despite the raging pandemic. The league was eventually suspended for a few months. Even this time, IPL needs to be careful to not hurt sentiments. There should not be a situation where players and VIPs are seen enjoying privileges in a stadium while fans are queuing up outside to buy gas cylinders.

QUICK TAKE

RESILIENCE IN FARMING

THE government's revelation that almost half of India's 651 agricultural districts are at risk of suffering adverse effects of climate change should worry us all. The National Innovations in Climate Resilient Agriculture programme has categorised 201 districts as highly vulnerable and 109 as very highly vulnerable. It has been working on climate resilience through Krishi Vigyan Kendras in 448 model villages across 151 at-risk districts. India has a wealth of experience in agricultural science. But changing farmers' choices on crops, seeds and pesticide takes persistent efforts over time. The use of drip irrigation, crop rotation and drought-tolerant cultivars can no longer be options only for model villages. Efforts to increase sustainability of food production should be urgently taken to all corners of the country.

The demographic boom has coincided with a decline in fresh private non-farm jobs. Rather than handing out unemployment doles, governments must provide apprenticeships in organised industries

DEEPENING INEQUALITY: INDIA'S EDUCATION & EMPLOYMENT CRISES

MANDAR PARDIKAR

FOR decades, India has faced a human development deficit relative to its level of per-capita income. It has been the outcome of policy choices. Now, as the country approaches the end of its demographic dividend by 2040, it is facing a polycrisis manifesting this deep human development deficit: an employment crisis, a structural crisis in the economy (of sustained low aggregate demand), and an education system crisis.

The Centre for Sustainable Employment at Azim Premji University has, since 2018, set a benchmark for Indian academia in examining the employment crisis in its various dimensions through excellent State of Working India (SWI) reports. They just published this year's report titled The Youth in the Labour Market: Pathways from Learning to Earning. Apart from highlighting the high and rising youth unemployment, SWI 2026 points to several unexplored dimensions of the crises.

First, it points to poor distribution of quality education across India. While India's gross enrolment ratio is comparable to global peers', the key challenge lies in the quality of education. The top institutions are concentrated in a few states—predominantly in southern India—leading to regional disparities in access to quality higher education.

Second, employability after higher education depends on discipline choices. Over 30 percent graduate in social sciences in India, a level vastly different from China. A large share of Indian social science graduates are in the northern states, where general degree programmes, like a BA with multiple subjects, often have limited depth and are oriented towards preparation for public service examinations. As a result, many graduates lack research, technical and vocational skills, restricting their employability in a dynamic labour market.

One result this leads to, as I have pointed out in my research, is the shortage of secondary school teachers in science, technology, engineering and maths subjects, with the knock-on effect that too few teenagers at secondary and higher secondary levels opt for STEM subjects, resulting in a vicious cycle over generations.

Third, there is the government job and social discrimination angle. Over-dependence on government jobs is one of the key factors contributing to youth unemployment, as many individuals wait for prolonged periods to enter the public sector, which often resembles a lottery because of the limited vacancies. The preference is not driven solely by considerations of job security or social status; it also reflects the need for protection against social and economic discrimination. In many cases, individuals perceive that support from members of their caste or community within public institutions can facilitate access to services and opportunities.

This dependence is particularly pronounced among vulnerable social groups, who often lack the capital to start enterprises and face multiple barriers and discrimination in markets and administrative systems. Consequently, representation in public employment provides them with a sense of security, enabling them to safeguard their families and, in turn, support their communities. SWI 2026 argues that addressing youth unemployment, therefore, requires ensuring equal access to opportunities, strengthening safeguards against discrimination and improving the efficiency and accessibility of public service delivery.

This is useful, but I am afraid it does not capture the entire picture. There has been a dramatic fall in non-farm job creation in the private sector since 2016, as a comparison with previous government surveys shows, just as the number of entrants increased into the labour force, all armed with higher education certificates. Evidence suggests that there has been dramatic rise—a doubling, if not more—in youths aspiring for jobs in Union and state civil services, railways and public sector banks than there were in the early 2010s.

Fourth, the advance of artificial intelligence and inequality is another theme. Technological leaps such as digitisation and AI tend to disproportionately benefit higher-income groups, potentially reinforcing existing inequalities. This underscores the need to expand equitable access to quality technical education and skill development to ensure inclusive participation in emerging opportunities.

Fifth, SWI 2026 finds that though occupational segregation has declined, huge disparities persist across social groups. Consider that young members of Scheduled Caste communities, about 33.5 percent are engaged in casual labour and 41 percent in self-employment, compared to 9.8 percent and 51 percent among other social groups. Sectoral distribution shows that around 26 percent of SC youth are employed in construction and 31 percent in agriculture, while only 12 percent are engaged in modern services, compared to 6.6 percent, 27.5 percent and 25.5 percent, respectively, for other groups. These patterns reflect an uneven pace of structural transformation across social groups, driven by persistent inequalities in access to quality education, finance and productive assets among vulnerable populations.

Gross enrolment ratios capture only part of the picture, as dropout rates remain high among marginalised communities. Consequently, the share of graduates among Schedule Tribe members aged 15-29 is just 7 percent—a number that's 10 percent for SCs and 18.3 percent for other social groups.

Given their socio-economic constraints, these groups also have limited access to vocational and technical education, which further restricts their employment and earning opportunities. Addressing these disparities requires focused policy attention on improving the quality of elementary education, expanding access to higher education—particularly in underserved regions—and supporting marginalised populations.

The only way forward for young graduates is for governments to stop providing any unemployment allowance, even for limited periods, to graduates, and use that money and more funds to offer apprenticeships, with employer participation, in organised manufacturing and services sectors. In any case, that is a requirement of the Apprentices Act of 1961, too.

THE SALESMAN DIES AGAIN

IT is easier to begin a war than to end one. Few would have expected that a "twice obliterated" Iran could still strike back. War, once set in motion, acquires a momentum that resists both prediction and control. It unleashes forces we barely account for—suffering, memory, pride—those non quantifiable elements that outlast matériel.

Unlike wars driven by territory or ideology—or even by the pathologies of individual leaders—the present conflict has taken on a distinctly transactional character under Donald Trump: war as the deal. Many have compared him to Willy Loman in Death of a Salesman, who crashes his car and dies so his son Biff can receive $20,000 in insurance.

The premise is simple. Apply sufficient pressure and alignment will follow; once alignment is secured, outcomes can be managed. It is, in effect, bombing conducted as part of a corporate deal.

Trump's has been consistent in one respect: he treats geopolitics as extended real estate. It is in this light that he imagines Gaza—not as a political tragedy, but as a site for reconstruction, a Mediterranean Riviera. He has found a natural ally in Israel, to which Yahweh apparently promised the Greater Israel project. The language of policy elides into the language of property. And god wields a bulldozer the size of Earth.

In this framework, policies are measured in terms of cost and return. Conflicts become arenas in which advantage can be extracted. The size of the deal justifies everything. The method reflects a worldview articulated in Trump's autobiography, The Art of the Deal: "I like thinking big. If you're going to be thinking anything, you might as well think big." In business, scale can be an asset. In war, it can become a liability. Total war is total destruction.

The stated objectives of the war were clear enough: to roll back Iran's strategic capabilities, to stabilise the region and, more vaguely, to induce political change within Iran. Yet, outcomes have diverged sharply from these aims. Iran has not collapsed. It continues to act—launching missiles and sustaining pressure across multiple fronts. The region is not stabilised; it is more volatile. The prospect of regime change remains distant. And the Strait of Hormuz is closed to the US.

Trump also wagered that decisive action would consolidate a coalition. Instead, the opposite has occurred. European allies have kept their distance. Major powers such as China have declined direct intervention. India has maintained strategic neutrality. This is not alignment. It is drift.

C P SURENDRAN
Author whose latest volume of poetry is Window with a Train Attached

The expectation that shared interests in the deal would translate into coordinated action has not been borne out either. It turns out there are no shared interests. States have behaved not as firms responding to the deal, but as political entities balancing domestic pressures, reputational risks and long term calculations. The result is a thinning of support rather than its consolidation.

Like Willy Loman in Arthur Miller's play Death of a Salesman, Donald Trump makes life-and-death decisions as part of a business transaction. He sees geopolitics as extended real estate. Scale, which can be an asset in business, is a liability in war

"In war," Napoleon said, "the moral is to the physical as three is to one." By physical he meant the measurable elements of power—troops, weapons, matériel. By moral he referred to the less tangible forces—morale, legitimacy, belief, cohesion and the willingness to endure. Napoleon would know. His march on distant Russia in 1812 was a disaster; he began the campaign with some 600,000 soldiers and, after his defeat, came back with 20,000. The "moral" had won.

We may think wars are willed by great men; in reality, they emerge from countless decisions and forces beyond any single actor's command, as Leo Tolstoy suggests in War and Peace, a novel on the subject of Napoleon's march on Moscow. The belief that a conflict can be shaped and concluded according to intention is, for Tolstoy, an illusion.

History moves through turns, twists and accumulations, not commands independent of individual will. War introduces variables that cannot be priced: public opinion, historical memory, ideological commitment. These forces do not align neatly with material interests.

The war has also imposed reputational costs. Across large parts of the world, the US is no longer seen as the leader of the free world—if it ever was.

This war, like most wars, has profited the military–industrial complex—and, more interestingly, individuals as well. Figures such as Trump's son in law Jared Kushner—whose firm reportedly secured a $2-billion investment from Saudi Arabia's Public Investment Fund—illustrate how relationships cultivated in power can extend into the realm of capital and profiteering. In a system that treats geopolitics transactionally, the boundary between public policy and private advantage begins to blur.

Wars are not the absence of reason. They are often the product of a narrowed reason—one that privileges immediate leverage over long term consequence. A transactional approach assumes that what can be negotiated can also be controlled. Experience suggests otherwise: once set in motion, war escapes the designs of those who initiate it.

This is what great failure looks like in contemporary geopolitics. Not defeat in the conventional sense, but drift. Not the collapse of the enemy, but the erosion of clarity about who the enemy is. Not victory, but the inability to convert power into a stable order.

Under Trump, foreign policy assumes that pressure will produce alignment, and that alignment will produce resolution. War has tested that assumption—and found it wanting. The deal is no deal. And so, Willy Loman must die again.

Modi warns of serious consequences if conflict continues

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday said prolonged instability in energy and fertiliser sectors arising from the ongoing West Asia conflict could lead to unavoidable and serious consequences.

Speaking in the Rajya Sabha, he outlined the government's position on the worsening situation and its implications for India and the world. He said the war, now extending beyond three weeks, has triggered a severe global energy crisis and emphasised the need for unity and a strong message of peace from Parliament.

"Our trade routes are being affected. India's effort is to ensure that ships carrying essential goods, such as oil, gas, and fertilisers, reach India safely.

> Our goal is to restore peace in the region through dialogue and diplomacy. We have spoken with them about de-escalation and reopening the Strait of Hormuz
> Prime Minister

But if the global circumstances created by this war persist for a long time, serious consequences are inevitable. Therefore, India is accelerating the resilience-building measures it has undertaken in recent years," Modi said. "Nearly one crore Indians live and work in Gulf countries. Ensuring their safety and livelihood is a major concern for India. Many ships are stranded in the Strait of Hormuz, with a large number of Indian crew members aboard," he said.

He said the government has constituted an inter-ministerial group, which meets regularly to assess any difficulties in import-export operations. "Much like the empowered groups, comprising experts and officials, that were formed during the Covid-19 pandemic to tackle challenges across various sectors, seven such new empowered groups were constituted. These groups will be tasked with taking action on critical issues, such as supply chains, petroleum and diesel, fertilisers, natural gas, and inflation. I am fully confident that through these collective efforts, we will be able to effectively navigate the prevailing circumstances," Modi said.

Calling on the countrymen and political parties to remain prepared, he said, "We must confront every challenge with patience, restraint, and a calm mind," while cautioning that the repercussions of the conflict may endure for an extended period.

Reiterating India's diplomatic approach, Modi said he has held talks twice with leaders across West Asia. "We are in continuous contact with all Gulf countries. We are also in touch with Iran, Israel, and the US", he said.

Transgender bill passed in House amid protests

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

ON Tuesday, the Lok Sabha passed the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Amendment Bill, 2026, by voice vote amid a walkout by several opposition parties. Members of Congress, the Samajwadi Party, the Trinamool Congress, the DMK, and the CPM left the House, saying they were not satisfied with the government's response during the debate.

Social Justice and Empowerment Minister Virendra Kumar said the bill is meant to protect those who face discrimination and social boycott due to biological conditions. He stated that the law would continue to give legal recognition and protection to transgender persons.

Opposition members strongly disagreed. They said the bill takes away individuals' right to decide their own identity. They also argued that it excludes people with different sexual orientations, such as gay and lesbian individuals, from its scope.

During the debate, Congress MP Jyothimani said the bill was introduced without consulting the transgender community. She called the government's approach careless and said the bill is not a real reform. She referred to a Supreme Court judgment that recognised that gender identity is based on self-determination.

She also said that dignity, personal freedom, and identity are protected under Articles 14, 15, 19, and 21 of the Constitution. She criticised the provision that allows a medical board to decide a person's identity and said it limits the definition of transgender. She demanded that the bill be sent to a standing committee for detailed discussion with the community.

DMK member T Sumathy said the government is interfering in personal identity and treating transgender people unfairly. "This government treats the transgender community as subjects to be corrected, which is highly condemnable... the DMK rejects the bill. The government should withdraw the bill and at least send it to the standing committee of Parliament," she said, calling the bill "draconian".

Samajwadi Party MP Anand Bhadauria said if the bill is truly for welfare, then the government should listen to people protesting against it. Protests have been reported across the country, with activists calling the bill harsh.

Definition of transgenders according to the bill

The Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Amendment Bill, 2026 defines "transgender" narrowly and excludes different sexual orientations and self-perceived identities. It also includes graded punishments based on the severity of offences against transgender persons.

'United' Oppn writes to Rijiju, seeks discussion on women reservation bill

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AS the Union government moves ahead with proposed amendments to the Women's Reservation Act, Opposition parties on Tuesday wrote to Union Parliamentary Minister Kiren Rijiju seeking an all-party meeting at the end of next month after the current Assembly elections conclude. They also asked the government to provide a clear note outlining the proposed changes.

This newspaper had reported that the Opposition parties were planning to submit a joint letter to the government to call an all-party meeting for greater clarity on the move.

The parties believe such a meeting would help avoid confusion and build consensus.

The proposed amendments may link the implementation of the Act to the 2011 Census, allowing faster rollout. Another idea under discussion is to increase the number of Lok Sabha and Assembly seats by fifty percent on a proportional basis.

Major opposition parties do not attend session

However, major Opposition groups did not attend and instead repeated their demand for a collective discussion. Later, Kharge met floor leaders to decide the next steps together.

In his letter, signed by leaders of several opposition parties, Congress chief Mallikarjun Kharge urged the government to organise an all-party meeting led by the Prime Minister. He recalled his earlier request dated March 16, 2026, where he had asked for detailed discussions on the roadmap for implementing the Nari Vandan Adhiniyam of 2023.

Kharge noted that the government now appears to be considering another amendment to the Constitution change passed in September 2023. He stressed that all Opposition parties are united in asking for a full discussion before any step is taken.

They insisted that for the meeting to be useful, the government must first circulate a detailed document explaining its plans. They suggested holding the meeting after the elections end on April 29.

Meanwhile, Union Home Minister Amit Shah held talks with leaders of several regional parties, including the Biju Janata Dal, YSR Congress Party, NCP (SP), Shiv Sena (UBT), and AIMIM, on the proposed changes to the Women's Reservation Act.

Centre calls all-party meet to discuss 'unified national response' to West Asia crisis

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Centre is learnt to have convened an all-party meeting on Wednesday to discuss the energy crisis arising from the West Asia conflict and chalk out a unified national response. Sources said Defence Minister Rajnath Singh is likely to chair the meeting, which will be attended by External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and other ministers from relevant departments. However, Leader of the Opposition Rahul Gandhi is likely to skip the meeting due to prior commitments to attend a programme in Kerala.

Sources indicated that the ministers attending the meeting may brief party leaders on steps taken to prevent an energy crisis in the country and ensure the safe return of Indians from the affected regions. "The government will take suggestions from each party leader over the crisis and act on feasible suggestions in the larger interest of nation," a source said.

A day ahead of the meeting, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday held discussions with top Army officers on regional security and assessed India's defence preparedness in light of the emerging situation.

Home Minister Amit Shah held a meeting with ministers after the PM's statement in RS over West Asia crisis.

CPI(M) MP John Brittas, speaking in the House, urged the government to bring a parliamentary resolution on the Iran conflict. Recalling that Parliament had unanimously passed a resolution in 2003, he said a similar step should be taken now.

IAF launches first heli-dropped drone project

JAVARIA RANA @ New Delhi

WITH warfare moving beyond visual range, drones taking centre stage and helicopter survivability under scrutiny, the Indian Air Force (IAF) has set in motion 'Vayu Baan', its first helicopter-dropped drone project, it is learnt.

Sources in the defence establishment said the IAF had issued a Request for Proposal (RFP) earlier this month, inviting bids from Indian vendors for the system's design and development. The move is part of a broader push to strengthen indigenous capabilities in unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) warfare technologies.

At its core, Vayu Baan will be a small drone deployed from helicopters to navigate autonomously towards its target. Once airborne, it will transmit real-time video to operators and carry out a precision strike using a small onboard warhead.

Vayu Baan: A small drone deployed from helicopters

At its core, Vayu Baan will be a small drone deployed from helicopters to navigate autonomously towards its target. Once airborne, it will transmit real-time video to operators and carry out a precision strike using a small onboard warhead.

"The aim is to let helicopters engage targets from stand-off ranges while reducing risk to aircrew," a source said. "It will also support both ground and airborne control for flexible mission execution."

Sources added that the heli-dropped UAV will fly over 50 km and remain airborne for around 30 minutes, using onboard cameras and heat sensors to survey targets below. It will continue to operate even if enemy forces disable GPS signals.

It is learnt that the project is on a fast track, with the IAF hoping to complete development, testing and delivery of initial batch within a year. This will involve helicopter drop trials, payload integration and high-altitude testing before it is cleared for operational use.

India, with 'Vayu Baan', is set to join a select group of countries working on air-launched unmanned systems. China, for instance, has showcased air-deployed drone swarms from platforms such as the Xi'an H-6 bomber.

Similarly, in the US, the DARPA-led Gremlins programme has demonstrated the launch and mid-air recovery of drones from transport aircraft, while the US Army's "air-launched effects" is moving towards integration on platforms like UH-60 Black Hawk and AH-64 Apache.

US sees India as key pillar of Indo-Pacific balance of power, says Pentagon official

JAYANTH JACOB @ New Delhi

IN an address on US strategic priorities in Asia, Under Secretary of War for Policy Elbridge Colby on Tuesday underscored India's central role in maintaining a stable balance of power in the Indo-Pacific, describing the country as "a republic of continental scale…whose decisions will profoundly shape the future of the Indo-Pacific and the international landscape more broadly."

Speaking at the Ananta Centre here, Colby said the US views its relationship with India as grounded in "practical, results-oriented cooperation," stressing that Washington's approach is based on shared interests. "We clearly recognize that India has its own interests, its own strategic culture, and its own priorities, and that India is not shy about advancing them. But that is what we want," Colby said.

The speech framed India as indispensable to the Indo-Pacific balance of power, highlighting its geography, economic potential, and growing military capabilities. "India possesses a long tradition of strategic autonomy and a growing capacity to shape events well beyond its borders. The US sees India not merely as a key partner, but as an essential one in ensuring a long-term favorable balance of power in Asia," he added.

He emphasised a partnership built on realism and "flexible realism," aligning US and Indian efforts where interests converge, while accepting differences on less critical issues.

Quoting India's External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, Colby highlighted the resonance between US strategic thought and the "India Way," which prioritises national interests and a pragmatic approach to international politics. "Both of us believe that countries must operate with confidence in defending and advancing their own interests–and that is not only prudent but also right," he said.

FROM COLONIAL CATEGORIES TO BHARATIYA BHASHA PARIVAR

CHAMU KRISHNA SHASTRY
Chairman, Bharatiya Bhasha Samiti, Union Ministry of Education

BHARAT needs to decolonise the way Bharatiya languages have been seen, examined, studied, interpreted or classified so far. It's not just a rhetorical statement; it comes from a very specific historical reality of India.

The contemporary linguistic framework through which we classify Bharatiya languages emerged during racio-colonial rule. In the late 18th century, William Jones famously suggested that Sanskrit, Greek and Latin shared a common linguistic origin. This observation started the field of comparative philology in the colonial world and became the foundation of what we now call language families. Studies classified the languages of the northern part of Bharat at three levels: Indo-Aryan, Indo-Iranian and Indo-European.

In the next century, Robert Caldwell worked on languages of the southern part of Bharat and argued that they formed a distinct "Dravidian" family. On the surface, these look like scholarly breakthroughs, and to an extent they were. But they were also shaped by the racio-colonial climate of the time.

The Macaulay Minute of 1835 clearly stated two colonial positions: "I have never found one among [Orientalists] who could deny that a single shelf of a good European library was worth the whole native literature of India and Arabia" and "We must at present do our best to form a class who may be interpreters between us and the millions whom we govern; a class of persons, Indian in blood and colour, but English in taste, in opinions, in morals, and in intellect".

Therefore, colonial scholarship was deeply tied to the broader project of understanding, organising and governing Bharatiya society at large. Languages became one of the tools for that, as classifying them into neat families made it easier to map populations, draw boundaries and construct narratives about their ancestry and inherent differences. Often, these linguistic divisions were aligned with racial thinking.

> When we apply these inherited frameworks in Bharat, something feels off because the linguistic reality of India doesn't neatly fit into rigid, tree-like models. Languages here don't behave like isolated branches splitting cleanly from a single trunk. They behave more like networks

Later, the overt racial language faded. No one in academia today openly says Indo-Aryan equals one race and Dravidian another. But the categories themselves survived and created other fault lines. Over time, they turned into linguistic identities and began to carry historical, cultural and sometimes political weight far beyond their original analytical purpose.

Now, this is where the concept of language family and classification of Bharatiya languages get tricky. Beyond linguistics, these classifications started shaping how we understand our collective past. Entire narratives were built around invasion, migration, origins, races and ethnicities. These narratives often rest on refined linguistic assumptions of a hypothetical 'proto' language.

The concept of a proto language, like Proto-Indo-European, is essentially a linguistic reconstruction, deduction or conjecture. Scholars compare existing languages, identify patterns and then work backwards to propose what a common ancestor might have looked like. In a way, it is a reverse engineering and, to be fair, not inherently flawed. It's a valid method when used carefully. But one of the most prominent concerns is that there is no direct physical evidence of any proto-language. No inscriptions or texts that we can point to and say, "This is Proto-Indo-European." What we have are models, reconstructions and educated hypotheses.

So the real issue is not that these linguistic units exist. It is how they are often treated: as established historical facts rather than theoretical constructs. Over time, this has created an intellectual hegemony that has thwarted the decolonisation of linguistics in general and classification of Indian languages in particular. These models have become so dominant that alternative ways of understanding languages have been pushed to the margins. When we apply these inherited frameworks in Bharat, something feels off because the linguistic reality of India doesn't neatly fit into rigid, tree-like models. Languages here don't behave like isolated branches splitting cleanly from a single trunk. They behave more like networks by constantly interacting, overlapping and influencing one another.

This is where the idea of Bharatiya Bhasha Parivar starts to make sense. It is not a rejection of all previous scholarship, but a corrective academic measure. Instead of obsessing over distant, hypothetical origins, it asks us to shift focus to the visible lived continuity. What if we look at Bharatiya languages as part of a shared space where interaction matters more than separation?

From that angle, languages like Hindi, Tamil, Bengali, Marathi, Kannada, Assamese and others don't appear isolated entities with entirely separate histories. This perspective also changes how we think about knowledge. A lot of Bharatiya intellectual traditions are spread across languages. If we study them in isolation, that knowledge looks fragmented. But seen through Bharatiya lenses, connections begin to emerge.

To be clear, this approach is not about throwing away comparative linguistics or historical analysis. The problem is not of reverse engineering; it's of one way of looking becoming so dominant that it defines the entire field. Bharatiya Bhasha Parivar opens that space again. It allows us to think in terms of continuity, interaction and coexistence.

1st supplementary list of 29L of 60L adjudicated voters released late Monday, 2 more to come ● Sivasagar holds immense significance in Assam

NO CLARITY ON ELIGIBLE VOTERS

SUBHENDU MAITI @ Kolkata

A lot of midnight oil was burnt across West Bengal on Monday night and Tuesday as around 29 lakh adjudicated voters waited anxiously to find out whether they would be eligible to vote in the upcoming assembly elections. The Election Commission released the first supplementary list of 29 lakh out of 60 lakh adjudicated voters late Monday night after a day-long wait, while two more lists are still awaited.

The delay has increased concern, as those declared ineligible have a narrow window to file appeals and have them redressed by the tribunals. The list itself is silent on how many of the 29 lakh voters have been accepted or rejected. Sources in the EC said that around 10 lakh of them may have lost their voting rights after documents were scrutinised by judicial officers, though there has been no official announcement.

Individuals can check their status only by logging in to official websites and searching for their details, including using EPIC numbers or links such as the "adjudication supplementary list number one" and the "deleted list number one".

Officials said that the Calcutta High Court has been monitoring the issue of 60 lakh voters marked as under adjudication following the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls. A senior official noted, "The list with information related to the numbers of eligible and ineligible voters comes from the HC. We will follow the HC guidelines."

Criticism has also emerged from academics and observers who argue that the exercise lacks transparency and may affect vulnerable communities. Prof Abdul Matin of Jadavpur University said, "The mammoth SIR exercise is heavily opaque and goes against the ethos of liberal democracy. Initially, it was projected as a routine electoral process, but eventually, the drive has become exclusionary, insensitive, and dangerous for Dalits and minorities."

The EC had earlier deleted around 64 lakh voters classified as absent, shifted, dead, and duplicate, while placing another 60 lakh in categories requiring further scrutiny under court directions. More than 700 judicial officers are currently examining the documents of these voters under the High Court's supervision, and 19 appellate tribunals have been set up to hear appeals.

However, questions remain about whether the scrutiny of over 60 lakh voters and the appeals process can be completed before polling on April 23 and 29. For many voters, the uncertainty has created anxiety and confusion, as they must rely on online systems to confirm their status without clear public data. The lack of transparency has also raised broader concerns about fairness and trust in the electoral process, especially as elections approach.

As the situation develops, all eyes remain on the Election Commission, the High Court, and the appellate tribunals to ensure that the process is completed in time and that genuine voters are not excluded. Questions have been raised on whether the judicial officers' scrutiny of the over 60 lakh voters under adjudication and the subsequent appeals process will be completed before the state goes to the polls on April 23 and 29.

Voter exclusion has also affected political figures, with a Trinamool minister and a party strongman missing from the latest electoral roll update.

The names of Minister for Environment and Non-Conventional and Renewable Energy Sources and MLA Md Ghulam Rabbani from Goalpokhar in North Dinajpur, and Kajal Sheikh, a TMC nominee from Hasan in Birbhum, did not appear in the first supplementary list of around 29 lakh adjudicated voters released by the Election Commission EC on Monday midnight. The development has triggered concern within the ruling party.

Questions have been raised about their eligibility to contest the upcoming elections. Rabbani, a three-time MLA, has been fielded again by the party from the same seat. Rabbani said he could not find his name, despite having submitted all required documents during the SIR. "I don't know how it can be possible?" he said.

In his constituency, around 78,000 voters have been marked as "under adjudication". "Is it possible for so many voters in my constituency to go to the appellate tribunals? I am concerned about them," he said.

Kajal Sheikh's name was also missing from the list. He was unavailable for comment but is expected to wait for the next supplementary list, likely by the end of the month.

Both North Dinajpur and Birbhum are scheduled to vote on April 23. The last date for filing nominations is April 6.

A TMC \leader indicated the party may field alternative candidates if the names do not appear before the nomination deadline. Another party insider said candidate announcements for these seats could be delayed pending the revised lists.

TMC candidate moves HC on resignation

Arjuna awardee heptathlete Swapna Barman, whom the TMC named as its candidate for the elections, sought the Calcutta High Court's direction on Tuesday for the railway authorities to accept her resignation from service so that she can contest the polls. Her lawyer stated before Justice Gaurang Kanth at the Jalpaiguri Circuit Bench that her employer, the Northeast Frontier Railway (NFR), has initiated disciplinary proceedings against her for attending a press conference of the ruling party, which offered her membership, on February 27. The international athlete was named as the party's candidate from Rajganj in Jalpaiguri district.

Three 'activists' of different hues in triangular contest to claim Ahom capital

Akhil Gogoi | Kushal Dowari | Pradip Hazarika

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THREE activists of differing political shades are set to engage in a triangular contest in Sivasagar, the former capital of the Ahom dynasty, when the state votes on April 9.

Incumbent MLA and Raijor Dal chief Akhil Gogoi, an RTI activist-turned-politician, faces Kushal Dowari of the ruling BJP and Pradip Hazarika of its ally, the Asom Gana Parishad. The constituency had initially appeared headed for a direct fight between Gogoi and Hazarika, the Amguri MLA and a veteran of the 1979-85 Assam Movement led by the All Assam Students' Union. Dowari's late entry, however, has altered the electoral arithmetic. A former ULFA member and two-time MLA from Thowra, he adds a new dimension to the contest.

Though BJP had allocated 26 of 126 seats to AGP under their seat-sharing pact, it converted Sivasagar into a friendly contest by fielding its candidate.

CM Himanta Biswa Sarma said the BJP felt the need for a friendly contest and fielded Dowari. He said the BJP had taken this decision in consultations with the AGP. Hazarika was confident he could carry forward his campaign with broad support. Gogoi could gain from a split in NDA votes. He is also the agreed nominee of a six-party Opposition bloc.

Both Dowari and Hazarika are familiar faces. Dowari won Thowra in 2006 and 2016, while Hazarika has secured Amguri five times between 1985 and 2021. Both seats were dissolved after the 2023 delimitation and now fall within Sivasagar. With a sizeable Ahom electorate, the constituency carries social significance, with Gogoi and Dowari belonging to the community.

The campaign sharpened after Dowari allegedly said he would "politically murder" Gogoi, prompting a swift retort, with Gogoi branding him the "biggest murderer".

"Sivasagar is a highly literate district. Will the people elect the biggest murderer of Assam as their representative? What is BJP trying to show by imposing him on Sivasagar," Gogoi asked. "Before calling someone a murderer, he should collect the evidence. His statements are political in nature," Dowari countered.

Akhilesh promises pension for women

Taking a cue from the Assembly elections in Bihar and those of Maharashtra and Haryana before that, Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav seems to have realised the significance of women voters. With UP elections due next year, Akhilesh has promised women ₹40,000 annually by reviving the Samajwadi pension scheme. Flanked by wife and Mainpuri MP Dimple Yadav, he announced this at Murti Devi–Malti Devi Women Honour Ceremony in Lucknow. Meanwhile, Akhilesh's fear of uncertainty came out when he alleged that preparations and "settings" for elections had already started in UP in the form of posting of officials.

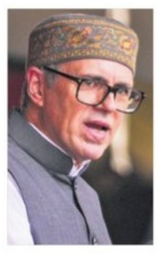
SET FOR DEBATE



J&K HOUSE TO TAKE UP BILLS ON JOB QUOTAS

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

WITH the second leg of the Budget session of the Jammu and Kashmir Assembly commencing on March 27, the House is set to take up three private members' bills—job reservations in highly polluting red category industries, administrative restructuring by adding two more divisions and 16 new districts and resettlement of Kashmiri Pandits in the Valley. The second leg of the Budget session will begin from March 27 and end on April 4.

The bill—The Jammu & Kashmir Red Category Industries (Reservation in Employment) Bill, 2026—would be introduced by NC MLA Hasnain Masoodi. The bill seeks to mandate substantial reservation in employment for residents of areas impacted by highly polluting "red category" industries.

These industries, as defined under the Environment (Protection) Act, 1986 framework and guidelines of pollution control authorities, are known for their environmental footprint, including emissions, hazardous waste, and contamination affecting public health.

75% for unskilled jobs

The Jammu & Kashmir Red Category Industries (Reservation in Employment) Bill, 2026 outlines a structured quota system: 75% quota for unskilled jobs, 60% for skilled roles, and 50% each for administrative & managerial positions.

UCC bill tabled in House amid protests

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

Exceptions for STs

The Gujarat Uniform Civil Code (UCC) Bill, 2026 makes exceptions for Scheduled Tribes and constitutionally protected customary groups.

THE Gujarat government on Tuesday introduced the Uniform Civil Code (UCC) Bill, 2026 in the Legislative Assembly, proposing a common legal framework to regulate marriage, divorce, succession and live-in relationships across religions.

A week after a state-appointed panel submitted its final report on implementing the UCC, Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel introduced the bill, triggering a political and constitutional debate over equality, timing, and intent ahead of elections.

If passed in the Assembly, Gujarat will become the second state after Uttarakhand to bring in such a law. Uttarakhand had cleared its UCC Bill in February 2024. But the Gujarat Uniform Civil Code (UCC) Bill, 2026 carves out exceptions for Scheduled Tribes and constitutionally protected customary groups, highlighting the delicate balance between uniformity and cultural autonomy. The proposed legislation will extend to the entire state and also apply to residents of Gujarat living outside its territorial limits.

The government called the proposed law a long-pending reform aligned with constitutional ideals of equality and justice. At the heart of the bill lies a sweeping attempt to standardise civil practices. It mandates registration of live-in relationships and formalises their termination, while also outlawing bigamy by declaring a marriage valid only if neither party has a living spouse at the time of union. These provisions, the government argues, are aimed at ensuring legal clarity and gender justice.

Defending the bill, CM Patel struck an emphatic tone in the House. "We will strengthen the resolve of equality, justice and unity. This bill has been brought after discussing all aspects. It will provide equal justice to citizens and ensure equal rights for women with dignity and respect," he said, prompting applause from treasury benches.

Deputy CM and Home Minister Harsh Sanghvi called the moment "historic", linking the reform to long-standing gender inequities embedded in personal laws. "Even after independence, different personal laws based on religion caused the most suffering to our sisters and daughters. Now, through UCC, the same rules will apply to everyone in marriage, inheritance, and civil matters. This law delivers equal justice not for one religion, but for the entire society," Sanghvi said and expressed confidence that legislators across party lines would back the bill in the interest of women's rights.

But the opposition has launched a sharp counterattack, questioning both the intent and the urgency behind the legislation. Congress MLA Amit Chavda challenged the timing, asking, "Why does the government remember UCC whenever elections come?"

He raised procedural concerns, alleging that key stakeholders, including religious leaders, were excluded from consultations, despite nearly one lakh objections being submitted.

Need to keep close watch to identify foreigners: RSS

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

Giving a call to treat all Indians equally, while ensuring special opportunities and employment for the indigenous Hindu population, RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat appealed for "ghar vapsi" of those who were once Hindu but had adopted other faiths due to coercion or circumstance.

At the inauguration of Jeevan Deep Ashram in Vrindavan on Tuesday, he said, "People must stay alert and ensure foreigners do not take employment." He raised concerns over illegal immigration, saying, "People need to keep a closer watch to identify foreigners and ensure that they do not receive employment here." Stressing unity, he remarked, "Society and administration should work together to prevent conversion and infiltration." He added that ego, selfishness, and caste divisions weaken society. "Fighting among ourselves only harms us," he said.

On population, Bhagwat supported a three-child policy, saying doctors saw benefits for family health and social development. "Lower fertility can create long-term risks," he warned, adding that many nations try to raise birth rates. He called it a humanitarian approach.

On religious issues, he said, "The government may legislate, but the society must act." He urged ending forced conversions and welcoming back those willing. Comparing nations, he said India remained accommodating despite global aggression.

Another bomb from WWII-era found in J'khand

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

PANIC has gripped the residents of Bahragora in Jamshedpur after an Army drone survey detected another bomb, days after the recovery of a 500-pound US-made explosive on March 17. Locals fear that as many as eight more bombs may still be buried. This region held strategic importance during the World War II, thereby fueling fears that additional bombs may also be discovered.

Following the discovery, the Army has taken control of the area. The Army's Bomb Disposal Squad, upon reaching the site along the Panipada-Nagudsai route, deployed advanced equipment and carried out drone surveillance to obtain detailed aerial images of the entire area. During the survey, the team received indications of the presence of another bomb.

₹2.8K crore incentives given to investors: Yogi

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

UTTAR Pradesh has emerged as a safe and reliable destination for investment and business amid global instability due to wars, Chief Mister Yogi Adityanath said on Tuesday.

"Over the past nine years, UP has transformed through transparent policies, strict law and order, improved infrastructure, and an industry-friendly environment," he said, launching 'Nivesh Mitra 3.0' single-window system. "The state offered a conducive ecosystem for scalable businesses, a vast consumer market, skilled young human resources, and seamless connectivity," he added.

The CM said incentives worth ₹2,781.12 crore were given to 45 companies for 85 projects in manufacturing, automobile, cement, bioplastics, iron and steel, food processing, and electronics. "Letters of Comfort (LoCs) were issued to 62 companies, which paved way for ₹50,000 crore in investments, creating employment opportunities for around 50,000 youth," he said.

UP GETS INVESTOR READY

Incentives worth ₹2,781.12 cr distributed to 85 projects across sectors

Among these, ₹73 cr given to 4 IT, electronics projects, and ₹20 cr to 10 food processing projects

Nivesh Mitra 3.0 : Over 530 services from more than 43 departments simplified and consolidated into fewer than 200 services

Features : PAN-based single user ID, dynamic CAF, AI chatbot, real-time tracking, automated alerts, and end-to-end online monitoring

Investors and business leaders used to laugh away invitations to invest in UP before 2017, the CM said, adding that this perception prompted him to shape the zero-tolerance policy to mafia raj. "This policy remains non-negotiable even today and continues to serve as the backbone of UP's growth story," the CM said.

Yogi said: "Government is committed to ensuring rapid ground-breaking after MoUs, resolving minor issues related to investments quickly, and providing a favourable environment for industries." He said the trust of entrepreneurs was the real strength of development, and the state would continue to build on it to become a leading centre of investment and industrial growth.

"Investor confidence is the greatest capital of the state, and the government is continuously striving to strengthen it," the CM said. He urged investors to invest freely in the state, stating that all necessary resources and opportunities are readily available.

He said that to further strengthen the ease of doing business, the complex land-use conversion process was abolished. "Now, once a map is approved under the master plan, land use will be deemed automatically approved, eliminating the need for separate certification," said Yogi.

The CM warned the trade unions against any disruption or disorder in industrial operations. "If attempts are made to hinder industries in the name of trade unions or otherwise, strict action will be taken," he said.

Libya tows drifting Russian tanker to ward off environmental hazards

CAIRO

LIBYAN authorities were towing a Russian tanker drifting in the Mediterranean for the past three weeks, after the vessel was damaged in a suspected sea drone attack, officials said Tuesday.

The Arctic Metagaz is part of Russia's so-called shadow fleet transporting fossil fuels in violation of international sanctions over Moscow's war on Ukraine. Libya's coast guard said that the tanker, which carries liquefied natural gas, was being towed to a safe zone off the town of Zuwara on Libya's western coast. A video posted on Tuesday by Libyan authorities showed a tugboat towing the slowly moving tanker with a thick rope. The tanker is seen tilting on one side, with a blackened hull from a fire.

The National Oil Corp. in Libya said over the weekend that it was collaborating with Italian energy company Eni to safely bring the damaged tanker to the shore to avert an environmental crisis. The Libyan company said that it has taken "all procedures ... to reduce environmental risks and prevent any potential leakage or negative impacts." Russian authorities said that the Arctic Metagaz was hit and badly damaged by Ukrainian naval drones near Malta's waters. All 30 crew members were rescued. Ukraine hasn't commented.

The tanker was hit with a drone earlier this month. The Libyan Maritime Authority said at the time that the tanker experienced "sudden explosions, followed by a massive fire," while it was about 240 kilometers (150 miles) off the Libyan city of Sirte. The Libyan governmental body also mistakenly reported that the tanker had sunk. The Arctic Metagaz, however, remained floating and was pushed by winds and currents toward the Libyan coast, according to the World Wide Fund for Nature, a global conservation organisation.

The group said Monday that the tanker remained "highly unstable," and warned about "significant environmental risks for one of the Mediterranean's most fragile and biodiversity-rich marine areas." AP

Russia launches 400 drones; 6 dead in Ukraine

KYIV: A major Russian drone and missile assault killed six and injured at least 46 across Ukraine, officials said on Tuesday. Nearly 400 drones and dozens of missiles hit multiple cities, including Kyiv, Lviv and Dnipro, damaging civilian areas. The strikes come as Russia intensifies frontline pressure, signalling a possible spring offensive, amid stalled peace talks and ongoing heavy fighting.

Iran, Israel trade strikes amid mixed signals from the US, deepening war

Fresh wave of airstrikes acrosss Iran; Israel's commercial hub hit

TEHRAN

IRAN and Israel traded strikes on Tuesday, as the West Asia war showed no sign of de-escalation after US President Donald Trump signalled "very good talks" to end the three-week conflict. The war, sparked by US-Israel attacks on Iran that killed its supreme leader, has upended global energy markets, roiled the world economy, and spiralled throughout the region — even dragging in safe-haven Gulf nations.

Israel's army said it had conducted a "large wave" of airstrikes across several areas of Iran, which had earlier launched a "direct hit" on a building in an upscale area of Tel Aviv. AFP images showed rubble-strewn streets and the side of a three-storey building in Israel's commercial hub in ruins, as first responders scrambled to assist at least four people lightly injured at four different locations. Earlier, Iranian media reported US-Israeli warplanes had struck two gas facilities and a pipeline, hours after Trump stepped back from his threat to attack energy sites, citing negotiations to end the war. Trump on Monday said his administration was speaking with an unidentified "top person", as he extended by five days a deadline to hit Iran's power plants. But Tehran's parliamentary speaker, Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf said "no negotiations" were underway, accusing Trump of seeking "to manipulate the financial and oil markets."

As uncertainty swirled about diplomatic efforts to end the war, Gulf nations Bahrain, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Saudi Arabia said they intercepted renewed drone and missile attacks on Tuesday.

There are no formal diplomatic relations between Washington and Tehran, and Trump's suggestion that there had been progress in talks was met with a swift denial from Iran. But Iran's foreign ministry acknowledged that messages had been relayed by "some friendly countries" indicating a "US request for negotiations aimed at ending the war".

Pakistan PM Shehbaz Sharif said he spoke with Iran's President Masoud Pezeshkian, offering Islamabad's help for regional peace. Egypt's Foreign Minister Badr Abdelatty also held calls with his Iranian counterpart and US envoy Steve Witkoff. AFP

Iran names new security chief to succeed Larijani

TEHRAN: Iran on Tuesday appointed former Revolutionary Guards commander Mohammad Bagher Zolghadr as head of the Supreme National Security Council, replacing Ali Larijani, who was killed in an Israeli strike. Zolghadr, a longtime Guards figure, has held key roles in security and government, including deputy interior minister. His appointment signals a stronger military influence as Iran confronts US-Israeli attacks. Leadership in Tehran remains unclear following the reported killing of supreme leader Ali Khamenei, with successor Mojtaba yet to appear publicly.

WAR WATCH

Rubio to meet G7 on Iran war

WASHINGTON: US Secretary of State Marco Rubio will meet G7 counterparts in France on Friday to discuss the Iran war and global security issues, the State Department said. The visit follows President Donald Trump's claim of talks with Tehran, denied by Iran, and his pause on threats to strike its power infrastructure. Rubio will join foreign ministers in Cernay-la-Ville near Paris. Discussions will also cover the Russia-Ukraine war. While G7 allies back Washington broadly, none has fully endorsed the Iran strikes, as tensions push global energy prices higher, amid ongoing missile and drone attacks in the region.

German president calls Iran war illegal

BERLIN: German President Frank-Walter Steinmeier on Tuesday warned of a "deep rift" with the United States, calling the US-Israeli war on Iran a breach of international law. He said trust in American power politics had been lost worldwide and there would be no return to pre-Trump ties. Calling the war a "politically disastrous mistake", he said its justification did not hold. While Germany has not officially condemned the war, Steinmeier urged upholding principles. Chancellor Friedrich Merz has criticised Iran's leadership but said Berlin would have advised against the conflict.

Israel set to extend south Lebanon control to Litani

BEIRUT

ISRAEL said on Tuesday that its military would take control of south Lebanon up to the Litani River, around 30 kilometres (20 miles) from the border, as deadly strikes pounded the country. In the latest unprecedented step by Lebanese authorities since a new war erupted between Israel and Hezbollah, Lebanon's foreign ministry declared the Iranian ambassador persona non grata, giving him until Sunday to leave the country.

Lebanon was pulled into the West Asia war when the Tehran-backed Hezbollah militant group began firing rockets into Israel on March 2 to avenge the killing of Iran's supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei. Israel has since launched strikes across Lebanon, killing at least 1,039 people and displacing more than a million others in more than three weeks of fighting. It has also sent ground troops into the country's south.

Israel kept up strikes across Lebanon on Tuesday, with the state-run National News Agency (NNA) reporting attacks in the country's south and east, as well as near Beirut, after a night of bombardment on the capital's southern suburbs.

On Tuesday morning in south Beirut, an AFP photographer saw vast destruction near the site of an Israeli strike overnight, with rubble piled up and debris covering the street.

The Israeli army said that overnight its forces "struck Hezbollah terrorist infrastructure in Beirut and in additional areas in Lebanon". AFP

Pete Hegseth first to suggest strike on Iran, says Trump

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump said that Secretary of War Pete Hegseth was the "first one" to suggest attacking Iran when he discussed the "problem in the West Asia" with his close aides.

Speaking at the Memphis Safe Task Force Roundtable in Tennessee, on Monday, Trump said he called all his aides, including Hegseth and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs Air Force Gen Dan Caine, to discuss the situation in Iran before making the decision.

"I called Pete, I called General Caine. I called a lot of our great people. And I said, 'Let's talk. We got a problem in the West Asia. We have a country, known as Iran, that for 47 years has been just a purveyor of terror, and they're very close to having a nuclear weapon. We can keep going and get that 50,000 up to 55 and 60, there's no end, or we can take a stop and make a little journey into the West Asia and eliminate a big problem," Trump said.

Trump, who is facing backlash in his country over the issue, praised Hegseth for his quick response on the issue. "Pete, I think you were the first one to speak up and you said let's do it because you can't let them have a nuclear weapon," he said. Earlier, Trump said on social media that he has extended the deadline for Iran to reopen the Strait of Hormuz, the strategically-located shipping lane between the Persian Gulf and the Gulf of Oman, and that he will hold off strikes against Iranian energy sites for five days. The US president claimed "productive" talks with Iran; Tehran denied it as "fake news." AFP

PAKISTAN OFFERS TO HOST IRAN WAR TALKS

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan PM Shehbaz Sharif said Islamabad is ready to host talks between the US and Iran to end the ongoing war, pending agreement from both sides. He reiterated support for dialogue and regional peace, and said he had spoken with Iran's President Masoud Pezeshkian. Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar also held talks with his Iranian counterpart. Tehran indicated messages from "friendly countries" about possible US negotiations. Officials said Pakistan has consistently backed diplomacy, while reports suggested recent undisclosed contacts between its army chief and US negotiators in the Gulf, aimed at de-escalation.

Air strike kills 15 fighters in Iraq's PMF coalition

BAGHDAD

AN air strike in Iraq killed 15 members of a former paramilitary coalition, the deadliest attack on the group since the West Asia war began, as missile fire elsewhere killed six Kurdish security personnel.

Iraq has been pulled into the war sparked by US and Israeli strikes on Iran on February 28, and which has since engulfed much of the region.

The Hashed al-Shaabi coalition, part of Iraq's regular armed forces but which also includes brigades belonging to Iran-backed groups, blamed the strike that killed a commander and 14 other fighters on the United States. In Iraq's autonomous Kurdistan region, a ballistic missile attack killed six peshmerga fighters, with the region accusing Iran of conducting the first such deadly attack on Kurdish security forces since the war began. Neither the United States nor Iran commented on the accusations.

Since the war began, pro-Iran armed groups have claimed responsibility for attacks on US interests in Iraq and across the region, while strikes have also targeted these groups.

In a statement released, the Hashed al-Shaabi, also known as the Popular Mobilisation Forces (PMF), said those killed in the strike targeting its fighters included a top provincial commander. AFP

NASA shelves Gateway project, pivots to long-term lunar base strategy

WASHINGTON

NASA's chief on Tuesday said the US space agency "intends to pause" its Gateway project that would have created a space station in orbit around the Moon, instead shifting focus towards "building a lunar base.""The agency intends to pause Gateway in its current form and shift focus to infrastructure that enables sustained surface operations," Jared Isaacman said in a statement.

"Despite challenges with some existing hardware, the agency will repurpose applicable equipment and leverage international partner commitments to support these objectives," he said.

The European Space Agency among other international organisations were partners on the planned Gateway project.

Tuesday's announcement comes in the wake of NASA's shake-up of the Artemis programme, which aims to send Americans back to the Moon and establish a long-term presence there, paving the way for eventual missions to Mars. The suspension of the Gateway orbital lunar project isn't entirely surprising: it had fallen under some criticism as wasteful or a distraction from other lunar ambitions.

Isaacman, who took the helm of NASA late last year, abruptly announced less than a month ago that it was shaking up its Artemis program that has suffered multiple delays in recent years, as it aims to ensure Americans can return to the Moon's surface by 2028.

That goal remains unchanged, but the US space agency is shifting its flight lineup to include a test mission before an eventual lunar landing to improve launch "muscle memory," Isaacman said.

That revision comes amid delays to the Artemis 2 mission, once due in February, now targeting early April. It will mark the first Moon flyby in over half a century. AFP

● Govt says there is no dry-out at any of 1 lakh petrol pumps across country ● Situation has not yet escalated into full-blown helium shortage, says industry insider

India loads LPG onto stranded empty vessels

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

AS the ongoing conflict in West Asia is impacting India's cooking gas (LPG) supply, the government on Tuesday said it is loading liquefied petroleum gas onto empty Indian vessels stranded in the Persian Gulf.

Rajesh Kumar Sinha, special secretary in the shipping ministry, said a vessel had exited dry dock and would be fully loaded with LPG in three to four days. Currently, five tankers carrying 230,000 tonne of LPG are in the Strait of Hormuz. According to him, eight LPG carriers, four crude oil ships, and one liquefied natural gas (LNG) tanker are among 24 Indian-flagged vessels stranded in the Persian Gulf due to the blockage of movement in the Strait of Hormuz.

Amid reports of crowds at petrol pumps in Gujarat, the government said there is no dry-out at any of the one lakh petrol pumps across the country. Sujata Sharma, joint secretary in petroleum ministry, urged people not to hoard fuel, citing Gujarat, and assured that there are sufficient supplies of petrol and diesel.

She said refineries are operating at high capacity with adequate crude availability and sufficient supplies of petrol, diesel, and LPG, with all retail outlets functioning normally. "We have around one lakh petrol pumps, and almost all are operating normally with full stock available. There is no shortage in Gujarat either, with sufficient supplies of petrol and diesel," Sharma said.

Govt notifies pipeline rules to boost PNG use

Amid a deepening LPG supply shortage due to the ongoing war in West Asia, the government on Tuesday notified the Natural Gas and Petroleum Products Distribution (Through Laying, Building, Operation and Expansion of Pipelines and Other Facilities) Order, 2026 to fast-track pipeline infrastructure across the country. The order has been issued under the provisions of the Essential Commodities Act, 1955.

Sinha stated that two LPG carriers — Pine Gas and Jag Vasant — carrying over 90,000 metric tonnes of LPG have safely crossed the conflict-affected Strait of Hormuz on March 23 and are expected to reach India in the coming days. As per a report, Reliance Industries, operator of the world's largest refining complex, has purchased 5 million barrels of Iranian crude, days after the US temporarily eased sanctions on the oil, as per three sources familiar with the matter. Iranian oil, which in recent years has mainly been bought by Chinese independent refiners, is often rebranded as originating from another country.

After temporarily easing sanctions on Russian crude, the US has issued a 30-day waiver allowing the purchase of Iranian oil already at sea. According to the U.S., the waiver applies to oil loaded on any vessel, including tankers under sanctions, on or before March 20 and discharged by April 19.

Helium shortage looms over electronics sector amid West Asia tensions

SANAL SUDEVAN @ Chennai

FOLLOWING Iran's attack on Qatar's Ras Laffan LNG hub on March 19, which caused extensive damage, India's semiconductor and printed circuit board (PCB) industry is bracing for potential disruption in helium supplies—a key byproduct of liquefied natural gas (LNG). The development comes at a time when India is aggressively positioning itself as a global manufacturing hub for semiconductors and electronics.

Helium is a critical and non-substitutable input in semiconductor manufacturing processes. Eswara Rao Nandam, MD and CEO of Polymatech Electronics, said the situation has not yet escalated into a full-blown shortage but is evolving into a strategic supply concern.

"The situation is not yet a full-scale shortage but it is clearly evolving into a strategic supply concern. While Indian semiconductor and PCB players are not facing immediate production stoppages, the industry is transitioning into a precautionary and risk-managed mode," he said. Bengaluru-based Aimtron Electronics, which operates in PCB assembly and the broader electronics system design and manufacturing (ESDM) space, said short-term disruptions could affect semiconductor fabrication, testing environments, and other high-precision processes, with ripple effects across the ecosystem.

Mukesh Vasani, chairman and MD of Aimtron Electronics, noted that early signs of price volatility and supply tightening are already being closely tracked by global chipmakers. Nandam added that helium prices have surged sharply, in some cases rising 50–100% in the spot market within a short span. Ashok Chandak, president of the India Electronics and Semiconductor Association, said the crisis in Qatar has triggered a short-term price rise of 35–50%, with further upward pressure likely if disruptions persist. However, he pointed out that helium is not widely used in India's PCB assembly segment due to its high cost compared to nitrogen. "Companies may not see an immediate impact on production, but project timelines and equipment commissioning are beginning to face indirect pressures," Nandam added.

Shortage of specialised ceramic materials is adding to the strain on India's electronics sector. Multilayer ceramic capacitors (MLCCs), a key component used in smartphones, laptops, and automotive electronics, are particularly affected.

Goldman sees lower growth

Wall Street major Goldman Sachs has slashed India's growth estimate by 110 bps to 5.9% for 2026 due to the impact of the Iran war that has entered the fourth week, and warned of a 50 bps repo rate hike due to the sharp fall in the rupee, which is on course to close the fiscal with around 10% loss.

Mkt takes breather amid signs of war de-escalation

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DOMESTIC equity market surged sharply on Tuesday after witnessing a heavy sell-off on Monday.

The positive momentum mirrored the rally in global markets amid signs of de-escalation in West Asia after US President Donald Trump on Monday said that he would order the military to postpone any strikes against Iranian power plants and energy infrastructure for 5 days.

The BSE Sensex closed the Tuesday session at 74,068.45, up 1372.06 points or 1.89%, while the NSE Nifty50 settled at 22,912.40, up 400 points or 1.78%.

The broader markets also mirrored the benchmark performance, with Nifty Midcap and Small cap indices outperforming, rising by 2.60% and 2.63% respectively, driven by widespread buying across stocks.

"The domestic market witnessed a relief rally following a temporary pause in attacks on Iran's energy infrastructure, which could lead to further leeway in easing West Asia–related tensions. However, caution persists as investors await greater clarity on the developments around the Strait of Hormuz," said Vinod Nair, Head of Research, Geojit Investments. Nair added that the resulting supply chain issues are unlikely to have a lasting impact on markets and may be limited to a one- to two-quarter disruption in earnings.

Sensex and Nifty fallen 2.6% on Monday amid geopolitical tensions turning for the worse during the weekend as US President Donald Trump issued an ultimatum, warning of strikes on Iran's power grid unless Tehran restores access to the Strait of Hormuz.

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

HDFC Bank on Tuesday said that it has appointed law firms to investigate and submit a report on the reasons cited by its former part-time Chairman Atanu Chakraborty in his resignation letter last week.

The bank said the appointment of external law firms - Trilegal and Wadia Ghandy & Co - is a measure taken to independently look at the aspects mentioned in the letter to ensure an objective and fact-based assessment.

"The appointment of external law firms is a proactive measure taken by the bank to independently look at the aspects mentioned in the (resignation) letter of (Chakraborty) so as to ensure an objective and fact-based assessment," the bank said in a statement on Tuesday This step is keeping in view to constantly benchmark with the highest governance standards that the bank has practiced over decades, the statement added. Chakraborty in his resignation letter had cited certain issues in the past two years which are not in congruence with his "values and ethics." Despite the 12 member Board that met over his resignation repeatedly requesting him to explain the issues that he refused to budge, saying there were nothing more to add.

Then the Board, which appointed veteran banker Keki Mistry as the interim chairman, asked him to retract those words and redraft a new resignation letter, which was also turned down by the former finance secretary. Earlier, the RBI had supported the bank management on the matter.

Sebi chairman Tuhin Kanta Pandey had asked independence directors should act responsibly. Addressing the press after a Board meeting on Monday, the Sebi chairman said the regulator will probe into the matter and also the minutes of the previous Board meetings of the bank, apart from Chakraborty's unsubstantiated allegations.

"Sebi will conduct a detailed investigation into the circumstances surrounding the resignation of Chakraborty last Wednesday, citing unspecified issues," Pandey said.

China's WTO move on investments alarms India

PUSHPITA DEY @ New Delhi

IF the China-led Investment Facilitation for Development (IFD) agreement is approved at the World Trade Organization, it could enable China and other members to bring investment-related issues formally under the WTO's purview. Experts warn, if adopted, the proposal may be incorporated under Annex 4, allowing participating countries to amend it without requiring consensus from broader WTO membership.

India, along with 39 other countries, has opposed the IFD proposal, arguing that investment is not fundamentally a trade issue and that the WTO's mandate should remain focused on trade. The opposition is driven by concerns that countries could lose policy flexibility in regulating foreign investment.

As per Rajan Sudesh Ratna, former deputy head and senior economic affairs officer at the United Nations ESCAP, India's concerns are twofold. First, there is a systemic issue —countries may decide on such a framework without a mandate from ministerial conference.

"Investment was earlier dropped from the WTO agenda by consensus so India questions how a group of 70–80 countries can now revive it through a plurilateral route and seek to incorporate it under Annex 4. In India's view, any move must first have a ministerial mandate. Without such a mandate, the principles of the WTO will be undermined," Ratna said.

He added that India has also questioned the inclusion of investment under the trade agenda, noting that TRIMS Agreement (Trade-Related Investment Measures) already addresses key aspects of the trade-investment linkage.

Concerns extend to broader implications. Several countries — particularly participants in the Belt and Road Initiative and members of the European Union — are backing the proposal, while the US has adopted a wait-and-watch approach, said Jayant Dasgupta. India fears the move could set a precedent, allowing smaller groups of countries to push similar plurilateral agreements into the WTO framework in the future.

"In the case of the IFD, it will be a closed plurilateral, and China is seeking to bring it into the WTO framework under Annex 4. This raises concerns because once an agreement is placed under Annex 4, the participating members can amend it without requiring broader WTO consensus. While WTO agreements are typically consensus-driven, Annex 4 plurilaterals allow changes to be made internally by signatories," Dasgupta explained.

NCLAT REFUSES TO STAY ADANI'S ₹15K CR RESOLUTION PLAN FOR JAL

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) has declined to grant an interim stay on the implementation of the Adani Group's ₹15,000 crore resolution plan for Jaiprakash Associates (JAL). However, the appellate tribunal has agreed to examine the issues raised by Vedanta Ltd, an unsuccessful bidder. It also clarified that the implementation of the resolution plan will remain subject to the outcome of the appeal.

The NCLAT stated that delisting of JAL's existing shareholding will automatically stand cancelled if the appeal is decided in favour of Vedanta Ltd. Vedanta has challenged the decision of the committee of creditors (CoC) and the subsequent approval by the NCLT of Adani Group's ₹15,000 crore resolution plan, despite Vedanta's higher bid of ₹16,726 crore.

The matter is scheduled to be heard next on April 10, 2026.

In its plea, Vedanta argued that its offer was significantly higher—by thousands of crores—than that of the successful resolution applicant (SRA), but was not properly evaluated by the CoC. Instead, a lower-value plan was approved, which it claims runs contrary to the core objective of the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC)—maximisation of value.

Vedanta further contended that the CoC must exercise its discretion strictly in line with applicable law and governing documents.

CHINA

BRACES FOR FUEL CRUNCH; HIKES GASOLINE, DIESEL PRICES

China has increased retail fuel prices as part of preparations for a fuel crisis amid apprehensions that the US-Israel-Iran war may prolong, leading to shortages of gasoline and diesel. China's top planner the National Development and Reform Commission (NDRC) has announced temporary measures starting from Tuesday amid increases in international oil prices. The measures have been adopted to mitigate the impact of the abnormal rise in international oil prices, reduce the burden on downstream users, and ensure stable economic operation and social livelihood, the NDRC said. Accordingly, gasoline and diesel prices will increase by 1,160 yuan (about $168) and 1,115 yuan per tonne ($159), respectively, according to the statement by NDRC.

JAPAN

CORE INFLATION FALLS BELOW BOJ TARGET

Japan's core inflation slipped below the Bank of Japan's target for the first time in nearly four years, underscoring the fragile nature of price pressures and complicating the timing of interest rate hikes by the BOJ. Data released on Tuesday showed the core consumer price index (CPI), which excludes fresh food costs, rose 1.6% YoY in February, below market expectations of 1.7%. The reading marked a slowdown from January's 2% rise and fell under the BOJ's 2% target for the first time since March 2022. The softer inflation print highlights the challenge facing policymakers as they attempt to normalise monetary policy after years of ultra-loose settings. A separate index that strips out both fresh food and fuel prices rose 2.5% in February, easing slightly from 2.6% the previous month.

SINGAPORE

CORE INFLATION RISES TO 1.4% IN FEBRUARY

Singapore's core inflation rose to 1.4 per cent year-on-year in February, up from 1 per cent in January, official data released on Monday (Mar 23) showed. The figure is the highest since December 2024. This is largely due to higher inflation in services, food and retail and other goods, partly reflecting seasonal effects associated with the Chinese New Year, the Monetary Authority of Singapore (MAS) and the Ministry of Trade and Industry (MTI) said in a joint media release. On a month-on-month basis, core prices - which exclude accommodation and private transport - increased by 0.5 per cent in February. Overall inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index-All Items, fell to 1.2 per cent in February from 1.4 per cent in January, due to lower accommodation and private transport inflation that more than offset higher core inflation.

Pharma cos line up weight-loss drugs as patent expires

PADMINI DHRUVARAJ @ Bengaluru

DOMESTIC pharmaceutical companies are lining up weight-loss drugs, following the expiry of a key patent.

The shift comes after the patent on semaglutide, the active ingredient used in global blockbuster drugs for diabetes and obesity, expired in India this month. The development has opened door for domestic companies to introduce cheaper versions, setting off intense competition across the sector.

Within days, several companies, including Sun Pharma, Zydus Lifesciences and Dr Reddy's Laboratories, among others, have launched their own versions of the drug.

Drug regulator steps up surveillance on sales

The rapid expansion has raised concerns. India's drug regulator has stepped up surveillance on sale and promotion of these medicines, warning against unauthorised use and misleading marketing. Authorities have inspected dozens of clinics and pharmacies and issued notices for violations linked to illegal sales.

Prices of the drugs have dropped sharply. Weekly treatment costs now range from about ₹750 to ₹2,000, marking a drop of 50–90% compared to earlier prices, according to industry estimates.

Nomura expects this to expand the domestic glucagon-like peptide-1 (GLP-1) market to ₹12,000 crore within five years. The opportunity lies in scale. India has nearly 100 million diabetics and 250 million people with obesity, while the current penetration of GLP-1 therapies remains low at 5% and 4%, respectively.

Nomura estimates that even a 2% penetration in the obese population could generate over ₹2,500 crore in weight-loss drug sales. "Reusable pens by Zydus and Alkem present the best combination of pricing and convenience, with a monthly cost for diabetes at ₹1,800-2,200 and for obesity at ₹3,500-5,500," the brokerage said in a note.

The rapid drop in prices has led to a rush of companies entering the segment. More than 10 pharmaceutical companies have already launched products, while over 40 companies could introduce more than 50 brands in the coming years, intensifying competition, analysts said.

Apart from Sun Pharma, Zydus and Dr Reddy's, firms such as Torrent Pharmaceuticals, Alkem Laboratories and Glenmark are also joining the race.

DC's Duckett pulls out of IPL

Ben Duckett has decided to pull out of his IPL 2026 stint with Delhi Capitals, and the England opener now faces a two-year ban from the league and auction as per the amended rules. Duckett was roped in by the Capitals for Rs 2 crore in last year's auction, but he now wants to spend time at home and play red-ball cricket, following a forgettable run in the Ashes.

IPL teams RR & RCB sold for a combined ₹31.5K cr

Somani-led consortium completes buying process of Rajasthan, one of the founding members of the IPL; Bengaluru acquired by consortium led by ABG

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Chennai

TWO of the founding eight members of the Indian Premier League (IPL), Royal Challengers Bengaluru and Rajasthan Royals, were sold for a combined sum of over ₹31,500 cr. After months of speculation and back-channel lobbying between potential buyers and the owners of the two franchises, it's understood that they shook hands. Before getting into the specifics of both deals, it's important to keep in mind that the sale process will only be complete once the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) ratifies the deals (there will be other players as well who will take a look at the fineprint). It's expected that new owners will be in situ post the completion of this edition of the IPL.

Firstly, RR. The Kal Somani-led consortium is set to sign the club for around $1.63bn. It also comprises Rob Walton (Walmart family) and the Hamp Family (Ford Motor company). Walton and Hamp also own sporting properties in the US.

Somani, a tech entrepreneur, founded IntraEdge (technology services and solutions), Truyo. Ai (data privacy rights and AI governance) and Academian (edtech services). Royals, the winners of the inaugural edition in 2008, were picked up for $67mn. In 2021, the team was valued at just over $250mn. This shows that the team's valuation has jumped by over 6x in five years. When Royals were bought in 2008, it was the cheapest in terms of valuation. But this once again shows the IPL's robust growth story. The sale is subject to BCCI clearance but there isn't expected to be any glitches (it will officially change hands after the season).

One reason why team valuations have continued to grow is because of its attractiveness in terms of a closed door league. With no threat of relegation and salary caps in place — most of the US' big leagues share these two attributes — rich US individuals know their investment will not suffer.

With the IPL showing they are even immune to a global pandemic when the last rights went up for auction, this is a sellers market. There was a bidding war, something the franchise' owners wanted when they went public, before the Somani-led consortium won the right to own the side including their sister properties in South Africa and the West Indies.

A lot of companies showed their interest in bidding for RCB. It quickly became a bidding war, something Diageo wanted as it would push the price up. It was expected that the winning bid would comfortably exceed $1.5 bn because of the side's brand value. At over $265mn, it's the highest among all 10 sides. A consortium led by the Aditya Birla Group (ABG), a late entrant, acquired 100 per cent equity stake for $ 1.78 billion (approximately Rs 16,706 crore).

IPL caterer trains staff to use electric cooking tools

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

THE LPG shortage triggered by the ongoing West Asia conflict has forced the country's caterers to switch to electric cooking appliances apart from using traditional fuel like coal and timber woods. Caterers, who will serve the broadcasting crew during the upcoming Indian Premier League (IPL), are no different.

One of these caterers, however, is facing a unique problem. As most of their workers were mostly using gas stoves before the LPG crisis made them shift to the alternative method, they first need to be trained for handling the electric cooking appliances. "The workers first need to know how to use these appliances so we are training them at the moment. More than anything it's important for their safety," the caterer told this daily. Around 13-14 workers are employed with the catering firm and most of them have not worked with these appliances in the past. "At least one of us, who are well versed with these appliances, remain present whenever the workers prepare food using electrical appliances. This way we are not only fulfilling the local orders but also imparting training to the workers. By the time the IPL matches are held, I hope the workers would be fully trained," added the caterer. The caterer works exclusively for broadcasting crew comprising around 200 personnel including the IPL commentators.

As was reported by this daily, the menu will also witness a few changes as fried food items and tawa rotis might be missing from the platters this time as they lead to more consumption of gas. Instead, tandoori rotis and grilled food items are expected. "We have switched 70 per cent of our operation to electric appliances. We have bought induction stoves, electric hot plates and electric tandoors. Anyway we have been using coal to prepare a few items in the past. The only difference this time will be that the (coal) fuel will be used more now. So now the LPG consumption will be reduced considerably." The caterer mentioned that it has not received any specific guidelines by the organisers as far as the LPG usage is concerned. "The organiser only informed us about the matches of the state unit here will be hosting in the first phase and the number of people we have to serve. These measures we have adopted to tackle the prevalent situation," he said.

MUMBAI INDIANS

WHAT THEY DID IN THE AUCTION: Mumbai completed most work pre-auction via December trades for Shardul Thakur and Sherfane Rutherford. With the lowest purse, they signed Quinton de Kock for Rs 1 crore. They have a stacked squad filled the recent T20 winners but in recent seasons, it has not worked out for them.

CAPTAIN'S WATCH: Hardik Pandya will lead a star-studded squad to reclaim the top spot. He'll reprise his role as one of the side's main all-rounders. Pandya's stock has never been higher but he will start facing question marks if he doesn't lead this team to a title this year.

WHAT THEY DID LAST YEAR: In typical MI fashion, the five-time champions had a below average start but rallied to the qualifiers, only to be knocked out by Punjab Kings in Qualifier 2. Rohit Sharma was an impact player but this time out, he may be part of the leadership group in the field.

MUMBAI, HYDERABAD SEEK BETTER RETURNS

MUMBAI MAY BE ONE OF THE IPL'S WINNINGEST TEAMS BUT THEY ARE IN THE MIDDLE OF A SLUMP. SRH MAY BE ONE OF THE LEAGUE'S ENTERTAINERS BUT THEY NEED TO START BEING CONSISTENT. A LOOK AT TWO MORE TEAMS...

SUNRISERS HYDERABAD

WHAT THEY DID IN THE AUCTION: They invested heavily in Liam Livingstone's (₹13 cr) all sorts with the ball and somebody who can provide them with lower-order muscle. They also spent a lot on uncapped Indians with Salil Arora, a hard hitting wicket-keeper bat costing ₹1.5 cr. The lack of an established India spinner may hurt them.

CAPTAIN'S WATCH: With no Cummins, at least for the initial part, Ishan Kishan will be captain. It's an interesting gamble that the management has made. As RCB showed with Rajat Patidar, it can work as experience of captaincy at this level may be overrated.

WHAT THEY DID LAST YEAR: After the feast (kind of), a famine. They had a horror beginning to the campaign and by the time they managed to string together a couple of wins, they were out of reckoning. Travishek were out of sorts and the bowlers were frequently hit for plenty.

Krishnappa, man who defied critics to wear India cap

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Chennai

AS the bid money kept rising on the TV screen he was watching, so did Krishnappa Gowtham's heart rate. Was this actually happening? Was I dreaming? Why was there a bidding war for me?

These were some of the questions Gowtham was trying to process that day in Ahmedabad during the IPL auctions in 2021. In the end, the hard-hitting bowling all-rounder was signed by Chennai Super Kings for ₹9.25 cr. The Karnataka cricketer had, over the course of 10 minutes become a millionaire many times over. He had also become the most expensive uncapped cricketer in the history of the league. Gowtham, a net bowler during the Covid-hit England series in India, remembers following the auction in Ahmedabad. When the auction process had started, he wasn't even sure of getting a gig, let alone one that enabled him to tick something off his bucket list. Play under MS Dhoni.

"I was thoroughly surprised that quite a few teams went for me," he tells this daily. "I had spent a couple of years with Royals and Punjab, where I got minimal opportunities. When you get minimum opportunities, you start thinking. 'Will I be part of any team?' There were jitters and self doubts." When he saw his name on the screen and the bid amount rising exponentially, 'I started to visibly shake'.

Those self doubts evaporated. "I was fortunate to live the dream, being a part of CSK. It helped me a lot."

The one regret he has from the time is not featuring for Chennai during their title-winning season. "The message given to me was very clear," the 37-year-old, who retired from all forms of the game late last year, says. But because of the nature of the season — it was held in two parts, first in India before it was held in UAE — the management stuck to their template. With Ravindra Jadeja also playing in that spot as Indian spinning all-rounder, they may have left out one of their priciest auction buys of all time. "We were winning throughout so maybe they felt there was no need to change," he reflects. "A sportsperson's desire is always to play more and try to do more. But whatever opportunities I got, I enjoyed it a lot."

He was extremely highly rated because not a lot of Indian spinners could give it a good whack in the end overs coupled with his ability to keep it tight with the ball. That's why there was a lot of demand for his services. Previously, Royals had purchased him for ₹6.2 cr as well. Months after that auction, he helped the franchise to a thrilling win over Mumbai Indians.

At the end, he clattered a 11-ball 33 to give the side a last over win after opening the bowling in the first innings. Those were skills CSK valued highly but released him (LSG signed him for ₹90 lakh in 2022) without giving him a chance. While he is the owner of a very quirky record — featuring for two IPL teams who won (Mumbai in 2017 as well) without playing a single game — he knows the high watermark of his career came when he won an India cap in 2021.

For the time being, he is removed from the game but he sees himself as a coach in the near future. "I want to make sure people don't make the same mistakes I did," he says. He also remembers one of the things a Karnataka selector had told him when he was 25. "You can hang your boots because you will never play for Karnataka again," he remembers.

He went on to play for his state for over a decade post that incident. It's why, above all else, he wants to be remembered for 'my mental toughness'.

Munoz set to join BFC as head coach

SAPTARSHI C @ Bengaluru

JUST when stability seemed within reach, Bengaluru FC made a bold call. With the team delivering performances that promised more than they faltered, the club decided to part ways with head coach Renedy Singh, handing the reins to Pep Munoz, a source confirmed to TNIE.

Sources have also indicated that, alongside Munoz, another official is expected to join the team as an assistant coach. On paper, it wasn't a crisis, but the sudden shift in power raises many questions and gives a possible hint at a story deeper than the standings suggest. However, the role of Singh is not yet confirmed.

In his debut stint at the helm, he was assertive, stamping a clear identity on the side. When the Blues were looking sharper, braver with the ball, shifting away from predictable long balls to a more grounded approach, the changes in coaching raised a few questions. "It was a long-term goal to bring Munoz. However, the contract is yet to be signed," a source confirmed. BFC currently sits fifth in the ISL table, just three points off the top, meaning Munoz's immediate impact on tactical discipline could be the deciding factor in their "improbable" title chase. "While the players are now taking a break for international duty, it would be better for Munoz to gel with the team and management. That could be one of the reasons management might have decided to bring him in now," the source added.

Rape-accused Dayal to miss IPL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

YASH Dayal will not be featuring for Royal Challengers in the upcoming edition of the Indian Premier League. The pacer, accused of raping a minor as well as facing a charge of sexual exploitation, will, however, remain under contract. Curiously, Mo Bobat, called it Dayal's 'personal situation' while talking about it during a pre-tournament press conference in Bengaluru on Tuesday. He also said that 'we have been supportive of him'.

"Yash will not joining with the squad," Bobat, the director of cricket at the franchise, said. "As you know, he is going through a personal situation currently, and just to clarify, we've been very supportive of Yash to date, and that's reflected in the opportunity to either retain or release players. "We wanted to retain him, and he remains under contract and will continue, you know, in the short term, foreseeable to remain under contract," he added. Interestingly, Dayal has not been in touch even with the BCCI, at least unofficially. It's learned that when the Board tried to get in touch with him ahead of an 'A' series in the latter part of 2025, they couldn't trace him. It's also telling that he didn't feature for a single game for Uttar Pradesh, his domestic side.

Eyebrows were raised when the holders retained Dayal at the auction as he had already booked by then. When RCB began their final camp last week, the pacer was conspicuous by his absence. "We are communicating with him regularly. You know, I spoke to him earlier today as well. But it has been decided that it is not in his best interest, or in the franchise's best interest, for him to join up with us at this point.

"We won't be making any other further comments on that at this stage. But he obviously retains our support, he remains under contract, and we'll continue to speak to him as he goes through his personal situation," he explained.

Jersey No 11 for practice to remember stampede victims

During practice on all match days this season, the players will wear jersey No. 11 to remember the 11 fans who died in a stampede outside the Stadium during the side's victory celebrations last year.

NATIONAL INDOOR ATHLETICS

TN pole vaulter Baranica jumps to glory, re-writes national record

INDRANEEL DAS @ Bhubaneswar

THE Kalinga Indoor hall resembled a miniature athletics stadium — shrunk from 400m track to just 200m, from eight lanes to six and even the width is less. The Mondo tracks of two shades of blue were shining inside under the lights. The athletes were trying their best to maneuver the two tight curves and 10 degree incline at the first National Indoor competition of the country here on Tuesday.

For most it was the first competition on indoor tracks while for a select few international it was business like usual. Yet, despite the novelty factor, the majority of stars have given the competition a miss but the few who competed shone. By evening, there was a national record and a few personal bests on the indoor track especially in jumps.

On the far side the bar was raised to 4.22m. Baranica Elangovan was running with the pole in hand to create a national record — both outdoor and indoor. For an ordinary spectator, it just another jump. For Baranica, however, it was vaulting into a new destiny. She had made adjustments to her approach. The pole is now held at 70 degrees for about eight to 10 strides before lowering it like the nose of an aeroplane to jam it on the planting box to get that extraordinary lift. She has never cleared that height before. She tried to clear that height at the Indian Open Jumps competition in Bengaluru on March 15 but failed.

cheered her on, she managed to clear that height. She ran to her coach who was standing on the side. "It was really very emotional for me," she said later. Baranica used a shorter pole with a smaller grip on Tuesday. She obliterated her former training partner P Rosy Meena's 4.21m record. Her coach Milber Bertrand Russell may not be the great philosopher of modern times but has his own philosophy when it comes to pole vault. He has been working with her for more than eight years. For someone who came to Chennai for studies from a quaint Mayiladuthurai town, this was indeed something special. Baranica was doing long jump and knew nothing about pole vault when she shifted to Chennai. That's when coach Milber went scouting.

The coach too has another story. "I had to acquire a pole first because it is quite expensive and one of my clients donated one but I did not have a trainee," he said. "So I went looking for trainees when one PT teacher from her college told me that Baranica is very good." But the problem was she was 42kg. "I had to build my physique and slowly started to train," she said. Exceptional results eluded her and in 2020 she had an ACL tear. She had to undergo rehabilitation and three years ago she shifted to Reliance Foundation High Performance Centre in Bhubaneswar.

One letter is missing from the periodic table: Despite the wide range of elements and symbols, not a single one includes the letter J, making it the only alphabet letter left out

EARLY SIGNS OF SPEECHLESS INTERACTION

TAMREEN SULTANA @ Hyderabad

HE stands by the side of a busy road, traffic rushing past in waves.

The roar of the engines, blaring horns, voices wafting through the air — none reach him. In his hand is a small, worn notebook. He scribbles quickly, hesitates for a second, then holds it up to a stranger: "Bus stop?"

The man glances at the page, points vaguely in a direction, his lips moving too fast to read. The boy watches, trying to catch meaning in fragments — a direction, a hint — then nods anyway. He always nods. It is easier than asking again.

In India, according to the WHO, nearly 63 million people move through a world that speaks constantly but rarely speaks to them. They rely on sign language — a language shaped by movement, expression and nuance — yet Indian Sign Language remains under-resourced and pushed to the margins of everyday life.

In response, researchers are attempting to bridge this gap by building a two-way AI system — one that can read signs from video and convert them into text or speech and another that can translate spoken or written language into sign.

"Our focus is on building datasets and models that can both understand sign language from video and generate it from speech, since systems developed for American or British Sign Language do not work well for ISL," said C V Jawahar, Professor at IIIT Hyderabad.

The system uses computer vision to track hand movements, facial expressions and body posture from video, converting them into skeletal keypoints that transformer-based models translate into language. But sign language is not uniform — facial expressions act as grammar, and multiple signals occur simultaneously, making it far more complex than text or speech.

"We are developing systems that can generate captions and translate speech into Indian Sign Language videos using human video synthesis and avatars, aiming for smooth, natural sentences that can be used in classrooms, hospitals and public spaces," Jawahar added.

The process also works in reverse. "We extract keypoints from video and feed them into transformer models trained on video-text data to map signs to language, though challenges remain due to limited data, regional variation and the complexity of sign language," said Ashutosh Modi, associate professor at IIT Kanpur.

If successful, such systems could enable real-time communication — allowing people to sign into a camera and be understood instantly, or access spoken information in sign language.

But language itself complicates the problem — sign languages are not universal, and within India, they vary further. The signs used in Delhi may not match those in Mumbai, while gestures in Kolkata can differ from those in the south. These are not just accents but distinct dialects. What is often referred to as Indian Sign Language is actually a group of regional varieties, reflected even in ISO codes such as ins for Indian Sign Language (India), wbs for West Bengal or Kolkata Sign Language, and nsp for Nepalese Sign Language. While these share a common base, they differ in vocabulary, gestures and features like one- or two-handed alphabets, shaped by local culture.

These challenges extend beyond technology, rooted in everyday realities of language, access and infrastructure. "The biggest challenge in India is that Indian Sign Language is not uniform — it varies across regions, so what is used in one place may not be understood in another," said a Hindi sign language interpreter in a government school, noting that communication relies not just on hand movements but also on facial expressions, body posture and context.

She adds that a severe shortage of trained interpreters, limited learning resources and the lack of access in schools, hospitals and public services continue to exclude many deaf individuals, stressing that any solution must recognise the complexity and cultural depth of sign language.

Elsewhere, machines are learning to see. Advances in AI are using computer vision and deep learning to recognise and generate Indian Sign Language in real time. Models like YOLOv10-ST capture fine movements with over 97% accuracy, while datasets like iSign enable systems to move from isolated signs to full sentences. Sensor-based tools such as smart gloves are also being developed, pushing towards real-time sign-to-text and text-to-sign systems.

WIDELY USED SIGN LANGUAGES

American Sign Language (ASL)
A complete, independent language with its own grammar and structure, historically influenced by French Sign Language. It is not based on English and is widely used in the US and parts of Canada.

British Sign Language (BSL) A distinct language with its own vocabulary, grammar and even a different manual alphabet from ASL, despite both countries using English as a spoken language.

Indian Sign Language (ISL)
Part of the Indo-Pakistani sign language family, shaped by South Asian cultural contexts. It is not standardised and exists as multiple regional variations across India, with

Within India

- ISL is not uniform – includes regional variations like Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata and Bangalore-Madras sign systems
- Signs can differ in meaning and usage across regions

Technology so far

- AI models are being developed to read sign language from video
- Systems aim to convert speech/text into sign language videos
- Use of avatars and video synthesis to generate signing
- Large datasets (like video-sign pairs) improving recognition accuracy
- Early progress in real-time translation and captioning tools

In classrooms, without interpreters, I'm always trying to catch up. In hospitals & public spaces, it's even harder — people assume we don't understand, when they don't understand us

CITY DESIGN

AI FOR URBAN FUTURES

Japan Advanced Institute of Science and Technology and Waseda University, Japan, have developed an artificial intelligence (AI)-driven multi-conditional generative model to aid sustainable urban development, predicting future urban layouts. The AI-driven framework, called Memory-aware Multi-Conditional generation Network (MMCN), jointly considers building density, building height, transportation networks, and historical development patterns. Leveraging a generative architecture-enhanced diffusion model with multi-conditional control, semantic prompt fusion, and spatial memory embedding, MMCN offers a novel approach to modelling complex urban evolution. It provides a powerful tool to explore sustainable urban development, demonstrating AI's transformative potential in urban design. The MMCN allows planners to evaluate the long-term consequences of development strategies, supporting more informed and sustainable decisions, aligning with the Sustainable Development Goals, particularly those focused on creating resilient and inclusive cities. The research team tried the model on Shenzhen as it is the fastest developing city in China. The results demonstrated the framework's effectiveness, while qualitative analysis confirmed MMCN's realistic, coherent urban layouts with continuous road networks and well-organised building clusters. These findings highlight the importance of combining multi-factor conditioning, spatial memory mechanisms, and learning from historical patterns within a unified generative framework. The researchers say this is a promising tool for urban development planning.

MARK OF A TRAVELLER

CE spotlights lesser-known attractions to explore in Karnataka this summer, with the postal department's special cancellations to mark each spot

MAHIMA NAGARAJU

IT'S the time of year when schools and colleges wrap up classes and families start making summer vacation plans. However, with uncertainty surrounding international travel, perhaps it's time to look closer to home – at the Karnataka Postal Department's philately passport, which has become a hit among young travellers following a few viral videos. The small book showcases 100 significant locations across the state you can visit and collect permanent pictorial cancellations based on Karnataka's flora and fauna, historical monuments and famous personalities, to remember them by. "The postal department periodically brings out permanent pictorial cancellations based on the history and the importance of a place. This passport, which has the location, a picture of the cancellation and a short description on each page, was meant to make more people aware of them and encourage them to visit these places," explains Shanthala Bhat, assistant director, philately. Something seems to have clicked as Vasanth Kumar, the designer of the passport notes, "We've been seeing a lot more college students and travellers in their 20s, when it used to be mostly people over 40 who were interested." Since last year, the department has released three versions of the passport (the first with 20 locations, followed by 80 and 100), each selling out quickly.

While the passport's latest reprint too has sold quickly, the Bengaluru GPO is expecting new stocks soon. These cancellations can also be collected on other postal materials like envelopes and post cards.

Exploring ooru

If you have just a weekend to spare and don't want to take a day trip, there's plenty to see in Bengaluru too, with eight locations offering special cancellations. Going from Vidhan Soudha and the High Court to the colonial mansion that is Beaulieu in central Bengaluru, to Lal Bagh's watch tower, Rajajinagar's foundation pillar and the Ashoka Pillar in Rajajinagar, followed by IISc , ISRO, Sandesh Museum of Communication, will give explorers a sense of both the breadth and history of the city. For a nearby nature escape, Bannerughatta National Park also has a special cancellation – a delicate butterfly representing its butterfly sanctuary.

The Lal Bagh Tower

A walk on the wild side

If historical monuments are not your style and you'd rather prefer to spend summer exploring the wilderness, these special cancellations may lead you to low-key locations beyond the wildly popular Bannerughatta and Nagarhole National Parks. "In a remote village in Shiroli, Belgavi, there is the Bhimgad Wildlife Sanctuary, famous for being a place where rare bats (Wroughton's free-tailed bats) mate. While everyone knows Bandipur and its tigers (which also have special cancellations), there are many in Karnataka that are unexplored. The Black Buck Sanctuary in Ranebennur is also beautiful and doesn't get huge crowds," shares Harish Selkey, an associate manager in a top finance company who has travelled to 79 locations so far. Meanwhile, Kumar points to the kalinga (king cobra) cancellation that can be collected at Agumbe post office, for someone looking for a challenge and a trek through remote climes.

The Varanga Kere Basadi

Ancient room with a view

Beluru, Halebeedu, Badami, Pattadakal and Somanathapura are some of the most well-known monuments with cancellations; some lesser-known ones are waiting to be explored. Bhat recommends taking a drive to Belgaum to see an 800-year-old Jain structure known for its intricate, lotus-like carvings. "The Kamala Basadi, within Belagavi Fort, is very beautiful, surrounded by nature and water. Many are not aware of it at all," she says. The Varanga Kere Basadi, too, is a remote escape, a location right in the middle of a lake, giving it a sense of serenity. For a beach escape, Kumar points to the St Mary's Islands, located off the coast of Udupi, known for ancient rock formations captured in its cancellation. "The post office is on the beach, and right after you get the cancellation, you can take a ferry to St Mary's Islands," he notes.

B.K. Srinivas: A Journey of Grit, Passion, and Purpose in Kannada Cinema

The story of B. K. Srinivas (Benkoshree), a famous Sandalwood producer, is not merely about cinema; it is about resilience, conviction, and an enduring love for storytelling that transcends success and failure.

In the 1980s, Srinivas was an active member of the Rajkumar Sangha, driven by his admiration for Dr. Rajkumar and an unquenchable passion for films. With ample time in the evenings and limited film releases in those days, he would watch the same films repeatedly - famously viewing Shankar Guru seven times, even being asked to leave a theatre once. That moment of embarrassment became a turning point, inspiring him to work in a theatre.

His early days were humble. He sought work in several Bengaluru theatres - Aparna, Kalpana, Alankar, and Kapali - but found an opportunity only at Shantala Theatre, where he worked for a modest salary. Yet, it was here that he absorbed the pulse of cinema, understanding audiences, exhibition, and the magic that unfolded on screen.

A defining moment came when a mentor from Rajkumar Sangha encouraged him to step onto the stage as a speaker. That encouragement planted the seed for his first production, Mandakini. Though the film brought financial loss, it earned him two State Awards for Best Story and Best Singer - an early testament to his creative depth.

B. K. Srinivas

Srinivas's journey continued with films like Alemari, which also won a State Award, and Bhageerati, produced under the association of Baraguru Ramachandrappa, earning accolades for Best Actress and Best Lyrics. His body of work further includes films such as Angulimala, Preetisu, and Dove, reflecting both range and persistence.

Beyond production, he ventured into distribution, gaining a comprehensive understanding of the industry. While financial setbacks were part of his path, Srinivas views them as invaluable lessons. He proudly recalls the success of films like Anand, Ratha Saptami, and Manamecchida Hudugi, which ran for 100 days with packed shows - moments that reinforced his belief in meaningful cinema.

A thinker as much as a filmmaker, Srinivas also authored Nambikeye Jeevana, a work that resonated with readers and reflected his philosophical outlook. His reflections on the Kannada movie industry are candid yet constructive - he emphasizes the need for quality content, collaboration, and integrity.

Deeply influenced by the ideals of Swami Vivekananda, Srinivas lives by a simple yet powerful principle: "Be good and do good." In an industry often marked by volatility, his journey stands as a reminder that passion, honesty, and perseverance are the true measures of success.

Through challenges and triumphs alike, B.K. Srinivas remains a steadfast voice in Kannada cinema - one that continues to inspire with authenticity and purpose.

FITBIT

HABITS THAT QUIETLY TRANSFORM YOUR BODY

Big fitness changes often feel overwhelming. Most people look for quick results, strict diets or intense workouts. But real change usually comes from small habits done every day. These habits may seem simple, but over time, they make a big difference to your body and overall health.

WHY SMALL HABITS MATTER: Your body responds to consistency, not extremes. Small actions like drinking enough water, moving regularly, or sleeping well slowly build better health. These habits work together to improve energy, digestion and even mental clarity.

START WITH HYDRATION: Drinking enough water is one of the easiest changes. It helps digestion, improves energy levels and keeps your skin healthy. Even mild dehydration can make you feel tired or sluggish. Staying hydrated supports almost every function in the body.

MOVE A LITTLE EVERY DAY: You do not need a full workout every day. Simple movement like walking, stretching or taking the stairs helps your heart, muscles and posture. Regular activity also improves mood and helps manage weight.

SLEEP IS NOT OPTIONAL: Sleep plays a major role in recovery. Your body repairs muscles, balances hormones and strengthens immunity while you rest. Poor sleep can lead to low energy, cravings and slower recovery. Aim for 7 to 8 hours daily.

EAT WITH AWARENESS: Mindful eating helps you understand your hunger and avoid overeating. Eating slowly and without distractions improves digestion and helps you make better food choices.

MANAGE STRESS DAILY: Stress affects both your body and mind. It can lead to poor sleep, weight gain and low immunity. Simple habits like deep breathing, short breaks or light activity can help manage stress.

You do not need drastic changes to improve your health. Small habits, done consistently, create long-term results. Start with one or two changes and build from there. Over time, these simple steps shape a stronger, healthier body without feeling overwhelming.

Lakshmy Ramanathan's latest book explores human-animal coexistence, with a dollop of romance

ON THE WILD SIDE

ANJALI RAM

ON the fringes of cities like Bengaluru, leopard sightings have increasingly become part of everyday conversation, reminding us that the boundary between human spaces and the wild is thinner than we imagine. It is this uneasy coexistence that city-based writer Lakshmy Ramanathan explores in her novel, Love Bites and Pugmarks in Kabini, blending wildlife conservation with an unlikely thread of romance.

Set against the forests of Kabini, the book traces leopard behaviour alongside a late-in-life love story, drawing from years of observation, research and a deep personal interest in the natural world. "I grew up watching wildlife documentaries. A large part of my childhood was either spent outdoors in nature or in front of the screen watching them," she says. That interest intensified during the pandemic, when she began not just consuming documentaries but also understanding the effort behind them, as she adds, " I started watching behind-the-scenes footage – how long people wait for a single sequence. It made me admire the passion and perseverance of wildlife filmmakers."

By late 2021, she had found her narrative anchor – a wildlife filmmaker as her protagonist. "I realised I could use that as a pivot to talk about conservation issues," she explains. But her decision to focus on leopards was equally deliberate. "There are so many documentaries about tigers. Leopards are just as fascinating but often overlooked," she points out. Known for their adaptability, leopards thrive across forests and even near human settlements, making them central to conversations around coexistence.

And choosing Kabini felt like the natural setting, she adds. "As a Bengalurean, it's our backyard. At the same time, it gained attention following reports of black panther sightings. But conservation is never about one animal – it's about the entire ecosystem," she says.

At the heart of the book, she also talks about human-wildlife conflict that has become common these days, stating that shrinking territories as a driver of increased encounters. "When a leopard is injured or loses its prey, it may turn to domestic animals because they are easier targets, and that can escalate conflict," she points out.

Yet, according to Ramanathan, one of the biggest misconceptions is that leopards are aggressive by nature. "From everything I've learned, they want to be left alone. They don't want to attack humans – they simply want space. We don't see the world as a shared space, but our territories are bound to intersect."

Beyond conservation, as the title suggests, the book also explores love beyond youth. The narrative travels with wildlife filmmaker Dhruv Thimayya, who arrives in Kabini to document the elusive black panther, Karia, only to find himself drawn into both the complex dynamics of the wild and an unexpected connection with Mira Ponappa, a fiercely independent woman rooted in the landscape. As he observes the relationship between Karia and the leopardess Kapila, a parallel story of human emotion unfolds. "We often see romance centred on people in their twenties. I wanted to show that you can find love at any age. When you're older, you have clarity, but you're also more set in your ways. That can make relationships more complex," Ramanathan says.

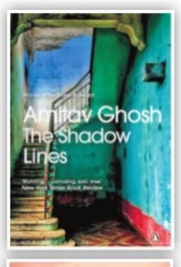
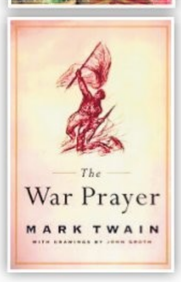
Reading Against War

WE may be living through one of the most dangerous moments in modern history. In 2024, the number of armed conflicts across the world reached a high, as per the Uppsala Conflict Data Program at Uppsala University. The war in Ukraine caused around 76,000 battle-related deaths that year. In West Asia, violence involving Gaza and clashes with Hezbollah in Lebanon accounted for tens of thousands of casualties, many of them civilians. With the Iran war, the list of flash points continues to grow.





In a world where conflict increasingly feels normalised, the tragedy is the numbing of our collective conscience. That is why anti-war literature matters. It reminds us of a simple truth: war should always be the last resort of humanity. Few books have shaken the world's conscience like Hiroshima by John Hersey. First published in 1946 in The New Yorker, it is regarded as one of the most influential works of twentieth-century journalism. John, instead of analysing military strategy or political justification, offers a different lens: six ordinary survivors of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima. He wrote with restraint, and yet it was precisely this that made the horror unbearable.

Long before modern wars filled our television screens, Mark Twain wrote a short piece that remains disturbingly relevant today titled The War Prayer. Written around 1904, the story unfolds inside a church where a congregation's prayer for victory in battle is interrupted by a mysterious stranger who calmly explains that if they pray for their soldiers to triumph, they are unwittingly praying for the enemy's young men to die, for their homes to burn, for their mothers to grieve and their children to starve. Every prayer for victory contains an unspoken prayer for destruction.

War is not always fought with armies. Sometimes it grows within societies. In The Shadow Lines, Amitav Ghosh explores this unsettling idea with extraordinary subtlety. At the heart of the novel lies a haunting metaphor: 'shadow lines' – the borders drawn by politics and history, lines that divide people who once shared language, culture and memories.

The Things They Carried by Tim O'Brien is a modern classic about the Vietnam War. O'Brien writes about what soldiers carry into battle – physical objects and mementos such as photographs and letters from home, and also the invisible weight of fear, guilt, and longing. War becomes a psychological burden that soldiers endure long after the guns fall silent.

A more recent book is Gaza: The Story of a Genocide edited by Fatima Bhutto and Sonia Faleiro. A joint investigation by The Guardian, +972 Magazine, and Local Call revealed that 83 per cent of the dead in Gaza were civilians. In 2024, UNICEF compared two sets of numbers of known child amputees – in Ukraine after two years of war, and Gaza after two months. In Ukraine, 30 cases; in Gaza, 1,000 – the largest group of child amputees in modern history.

Fatima and Sonia present 20 contributions from a wide range of Palestinian perspectives on the world's first live-streamed 'genocide' – a term Israel and its allies continue to dispute although Amnesty International presents indisputable facts about how Israel has imposed conditions of life calculated to wipe out Palestinians in Gaza.

Anti-war literature does not end wars, it refuses to let us look away. In times of conflict, propaganda simplifies reality into heroes and villains, victories and losses. Perhaps the most radical act in an age of conflict is simply to read, to refuse indifference and to recognise that every war, eventually becomes a story of loss.

Anand Raj puts zombie film on hold, turns to 1920s folk horror

A still from the film

Helming the project, Anand Raj also steps in as producer under the Anand Raj Films banner

CE FEATURES

IT was earlier reported that Anand Raj, director of Raaghu and Chef Chidambara, is developing a zombie film with Shamanth Bro Gowda. However, he has now placed this project on hold. According to the director, the idea needs more time to grow. In its place, he is working on something more grounded, atmospheric, a period folk-horror film set in pre-Independence India.

Apart from directing the film, Anand Raj is also producing the project under his banner, Anand Raj Films, in collaboration with Nagaraj C's Sunrise Cameras. The film brings him back together with Shamanth Bro Gowda, who leads the cast. Joining the actor is Anusha Anjanappa, who made her debut in Congratulations Brother. She will play the female lead, and the makers have shared the first few stills.

Anand Raj

Speaking about the new development, Anand Raj explains, "Sometimes, a story needs patience. The zombie film is still alive as an idea, but this folk-horror subject felt urgent. It carries cultural memories and fears that resonate more with us."

The upcoming film emphasises the rich textures of folklore, mixing period details with psychological and supernatural themes. The 1920s setting provides a vibrant background. It is an era filled with colonial tension, rural mysticism, and oral traditions that often blur the line between belief and fear.

The yet-to-be-titled film also comes with a diverse technical team. Malayalam composer Jubair Muhammed makes his Kannada debut with this project, while cinematographer Uday Leela is also on board. Sound design is being done by BR Naveen Kumar, while editing is handled by National Award-winner Nagendra K Ujjani. The film is currently in production and aims for a release by the end of the year.

Naanu Karunakara is rooted in middle-class life: Aryan Tejas

CE FEATURES

FOR Aryan Tejas, the thought that inspired him to work on Naanu Karunakara was, "In most homes, there is one person who keeps things running without ever talking about it." Set for release on April 3, Naanu Karunakara, according to the team, is a straightforward film rooted in middle-class life, focusing on a working man's routine and family dynamics without leaning on scale or heavy drama.

"I wanted to tell a story that people will recognise instantly, not something distant," says Aryan, who directs and plays the lead in the film. Coming from a theatre background, in the upcoming film, he steps into the role of Karunakara, an assistant director trying to balance work, money, and family. "It is a job people think is exciting, but there is a lot of struggle behind it. That is what I wanted to show." The story was written before the pandemic, but Aryan waited. "I did not want to rush it. I needed the right people to come on board." When he narrated it to Naman Narayan Santhosh, the response was immediate. "It reminded me of my father," Naman says. "I know many families where this is the reality. That is why I said yes."

Producer Vaibhav Suresh sees the film as something many will relate to. "Children don't always realise the pressure they put on their fathers. This film comes from that space." Together, the team chose to keep the film simple and grounded.

A still from the film

Shot across Mysuru, Melukote, and Bengaluru, the film stays rooted in familiar spaces. "We did not want anything to feel staged. It had to look like real life," Aryan explains. "Karunakara is not chasing something big. He is just trying to keep things steady." Producer Vaibhav Suresh sees the film as something many will relate to. "Children don't always realise the pressure they put on their fathers. This film comes from that space." Together, the team chose to keep the film simple and grounded.

Radha Bhagavathi, who plays the wife, describes her character as someone many will recognise. "She has dreams, but she puts them aside for her family," she says. "While doing this role, I kept thinking about women I have seen growing up. They adjust without making it visible." The film also found support beyond its core team. "When Bhavana Belagere heard about the film, she reached out and encouraged us. That meant a lot," the makers share. Actor Srinagar Kitty has lent his voice to the trailer.

Chandan Shetty eyes global recognition with first English music video

Diana and Chandan Shetty

CE FEATURES

KANNADA rapper, actor and music director Chandan Shetty, whose hits like 3 Peg, Halagode and Tequila had turned him into a household name, is now channelling that mass appeal into a new space, an English music video with a distinctly international vibe. Working between Bengaluru and Mysuru, the artist says this phase is about independence, experimentation, and finding a fresh sound.

The project, titled Diana-Myt (pronounced dynamite), also marks the arrival of Diana, a Mysuru-based model stepping into music. Having worked with fashion choreographer Prasad Bidappa she later appeared in the film Sakuchi. Speaking about bringing Diana on board, Chandan says, "I heard her casually humming an English track. That stayed with me. She has the right attitude, style and a strong screen presence. When I realised she could sing, I knew there was something more to explore." What began as a casting choice evolved into a full-fledged collaboration. Chandan took on the role of mentor, training Diana in rap, performance, and the demands of stage and screen.

The track's lyrics are penned by Chandan Shetty and Vijeth, while Australia-based Dilpreeth, known for his work with Badshah and Honey Singh, lends the visuals a slick, global finish. Costumes are designed by Bharath Sagar, while makeup is handled by Queenardo.

Padmanabha and Family will be my first full-fledged comedy drama: Sangeetha Sringeri

A SHARADHAA

The actor is currently in Mangaluru to begin shooting for the film, which is written and directed by Ismail Moodushedde, and also features popular artistes from Tulu cinema

SPEAKING about Padmanabha and Family, Sangeetha Sringeri, who first won hearts with 777 Charlie, is equally excited about her next, Padmanabha and Family. "Having worked in emotionally intense spaces, being part of a full-fledged comedy dream feels refreshing, she says. Fresh off the attention from her independent music single and as a contestant on Bigg Boss Kannada Season 10, the actor has just finished shooting a horror film made in Kannada and Tamil. She is now pursuing a new direction with an interesting genre.

Titled Padmanabha and Family, the film is produced under Navadurga Films in Mangaluru by Mumbai-based entrepreneur Kanyana Sadashiva Shetty. It is directed and written by Ismail Moodushedde, known for his work in Tulu cinema. The film features a cast that includes well-known faces from Tulu cinema, such as Bhojaraj Vamanjoor, Ridan Shetty, Deepak Rai Panaje, Mime Ramdas, Aravind Bolar, Pushparaj Bollar, and Manasi Sudhir. On the technical front, the film has cinematography by Chanthu Meppayur.

Padmanabha and Family begins shooting on March 26, on the occasion of Ram Navami. It will be filmed in one continuous stretch along the coastal area. For Sangeetha, the setting is not just a backdrop but an important character on its own. "I'm consciously working on adapting to the Mangaluru dialect. It adds authenticity and challenges me as a performer," she shares. The story explores the tender yet complex bond between a father and daughter, which Sangeetha finds very interesting. She plays the daughter of an auto driver, someone caught between personal ambition and emotional realities. "It's a space that many can relate to. We often think of wealth as material success, but the film gently questions if it really lies in our relationships," she explains.

For an actor who hasn't explored comedy before, this project represents a shift in tone and instinct. "I've always watched these films and wondered if I would fit in that world. Now, being part of it, especially in a coastal setting, feels

Mahershala Ali to star in Task season 2

CE FEATURES

HBO's Task has added Mahershala Ali to its second season. Reportedly, the actor is set to portray a DEA officer named Eddie Barnes in Philadelphia. He joins Mark Ruffalo, who reprises his role as Tom Brandis from the critically acclaimed first season.

The upcoming season of Task brings Mahershala Ali back to the web series space after a long time. While the actor served as a narrator on 2023's Chimp Empire, his last major role was in True Detective season 3 in 2019.

On the film front, Ali will be seen in Your Mother Your Mother Your Mother. He also has voice roles in Wildwood and Spider-Man: Beyond the Spider-Verse.

Wonder Man gets a second season

CE FEATURES

MARVEL Studios has announced a second season for its series Wonder Man. Lead actors Yahya Abdul-Mateen II and Ben Kingsley are set to reprise their roles as Simon Williams and Trevor Slattery, respectively, in season 2.

Created by Destin Daniel Cretton alongside Andrew Guest, the first season follows Simon Williams, a man who struggles to become an actor in Hollywood because the industry bans actors with superpowers from working in it.

The first season dropped on JioHotstar in January and has earned positive reviews. Known as the director of Shang-Chi and the Legend of the Ten Ring, Destin Daniel Cretton's upcoming projects also include Spider-Man: Brand New Day.
